NP PLOT TO BOMB ROOSEVELT

CALLS HOOVER TO ENFORCE ALL OF CONSTITUTION

Tinkham Takes Up Negroes' Rights.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special]—Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] has written a letter to the President that, in effect, challenges Mr. Hoover to enforce the entire constitution.

Quoting Mr. Hoover on the sanctity of the constitution and the solemn obligation assumed by the President to protect and defend it, Mr. Tinkham calls attention to the nullification of the 14th and 15th amendments or the nullification of these amendments in the southern states and the duty of enforcing these organic laws resting upon not only congress but the executive.

The Massachusetts congressman calls upon the President to make good his declarations, either by recommending legislation to enforce the 14th and 15th amendments or including the nullification of these amendments in the agenda of his forthcoming law enforcement investigation.

Battleground from Start.

The law enforcement investigation, whatever the scope of inquiry imposed by the President, bids fair to be a battleground of wits and drys from the start. There is no doubt that the government will be compelled to give early attention to the orgy of murder that has attended the enforcement of prohibition and the conspiracies of government officials to defeat justice in the defense of prohibition murderers.

More than 200 persons have been killed by federal prohibition enforcers and coast guardmen in the decade of Prohibition, while the killings by state, county and other local prohibition enforcers mount into the thousands.

Virtually every one of the federal prohibition murderers has gone scot-free. Whenever a federal officer enforcing prohibition kills a citizen and is arrested and indicted therefor by state authorities the federal department of justice invariably causes the case to be removed from the state to the federal courts for trial. Then the United States district attorney becomes the counsel for the defendant and resorts to the stratagems and subterfuges for defeating the prosecution that unscrupulous lawyers have made notorious.

Hanson Case an Example.

The lengths to which the department of justice does not hesitate to go to save a prohibition murderer from justice was graphically illustrated by the maneuvering of the United States attorney in the trial of the coast guardman who killed Jacob Hanson, secretary of the Elks lodge at Niagara Falls. The district attorney got a change of venue to Elmira, the home town of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of prohibition enforcement, but the jury disagreed. The second trial is set for Rochester on May 14.

The answer of the President to Congressman Tinkham's challenge to enforce the 14th and 15th amendments as well as the 18th will be awaited with great interest, particularly in view of Mr. Hoover's assertions that an official cannot choose which laws to enforce and that the President must be the first to obey the law.

Choices Laws to Enforce.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Hoover, like his predecessors in office, chooses which laws not to enforce. He is not carrying out the provision of the Jones marine act of 1928 granting preferential privileges to American shipping which would entail abrogation of commercial treaties with Great Britain and other countries. If Mr. Hoover excuses his noncompliance with this law by citing its nonobservance by Presidents Wilson, Harding and Coolidge he only invokes the excuse of the young scoundrel who justified his violation of the Volstead act on the ground that his father violated it.

WARNERS DOCTORS TO CUT COST OF MEDICAL CARE

Leader Reveals Plan in Ethics Battle.

The medical profession must exert itself immediately to bring about a reduction in the cost of medical services for the middle class public, it was declared yesterday by Dr. M. L. Harris, president elect of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Harris has put squarely up to the Chicago Medical Society the problem of bringing fees for hospital, medical and laboratory services in Chicago within the reach of every family. He proposes that the society should create an organization with all facilities to give the best of medical care to all people at a price they are able to pay.

DISCUSS PLAN TOMORROW NIGHT.

Tomorrow night the general council of the society will meet to discuss the Harris plan, and at the same meeting the members of the council will pass upon the charges of unprofessional conduct against Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, a leading physician and surgeon.

For three years Dr. Harris' plan has been urged upon the Chicago Medical Society, it became known yesterday, but always a faction of the physicians has offered strong opposition, on the ground that while costs might be reduced to the public, the doctors would be deprived of fees by the proposed organization.

The same faction, it is said, is pushing the charges against Dr. Schmidt.

It is also held responsible for the policy of the society in preventing the establishment of charitable clinics for expectant mothers and the sick in various sections of the city.

TRIAL INVOLVES MEDICAL COSTS.

The trial of Dr. Schmidt is viewed in some medical circles as directly connected with the question of the cost of medical care. He is president of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, a philanthropic institution, which treats many women and children who have become innocently afflicted with social diseases, and also affords treatment for other victims.

The league has entered into a contract with the Public Health Institute, which is operated under the control of a board of leading Chicagoans, and which also treats social diseases. Under the contract the league treats all patients applying to the institute for treatment who cannot pay the fees charged. For this service the Illinois Social Hygiene league is paid $12,000 a year by the institute.

INSTITUTE CALLED UNETHICAL.

The Chicago Medical Society has declared that the institute, because of its policy of advertising for patients, is unethical. The advertising brings unfair competition against other physicians, it is charged, and the society has barred all members of the institute's staff, since it was founded eight years ago, from membership in the society.

Dr. Schmidt has been called before the society on the ground that the indirect connection he has with the institute brings him also, under the ban of unprofessionalism. This is the only charge against Dr. Schmidt. It is expected that he will be considered the only one who saw the twister.

Carries Garage 30 Feet.

John Lefevre, his wife, and their two small daughters fled to the cellar as the twister tore a corner off the rear of their brick bungalow at 8506 Blackstone avenue.

The twister's track extended along 85th street from Dante to East End avenue. While roofs were ripped, trees uprooted and several garages crushed on the south side of 85th street, not a bush was disturbed on the north side. No one was reported injured.

SHRUBBURY IN SURROUNDING NEIGHBORHOODS.

Henry J. Cox, head of the weather bureau, expressed the opinion that the twister was a small tornado.

Violent winds and severe electrical storms occurred in Chicago Sunday night. At Hammond, Ind., lightning struck a gasoline tank in the rear of the Roxana Petroleum company, killing a workman, J. E. Pemberton, 25 years old, and igniting 4,000 gallons of gasoline. The oil company's frenzied drained off the tank and extinguished the blaze without help from the Hammond fire department.

SEEN CLOUD ROLLING OVERHEAD.

"We heard an unearthly shrieking outside," said Mrs. Barnham. "I put my head out one of the broken windows and saw a black cloud rolling overhead, just above the roof. I ducked back inside and called Jack to help me hold the door. We threw ourselves against it but the latch suddenly snapped and the door was whipped open, throwing us both to the floor. Somehow we reached the cellar."

A block east at 8506 Stony Island avenue the twister ripped a big electric sign from the Blue Island drug store, pushed in every window in a two story structure at 8506 Stony Island avenue, and sent timbers and tree branches hurtling against passing automobiles in several of which the windows and windshields were shattered.

In the next block, at 8506 East End avenue, twenty-five feet of stone concrete was sheared off the top of a two story apartment house. At the south corner of the structure the brick walls parted, leaving a cleft a foot wide from roof to basement.

Peter Riley and his wife, tenants in a downstairs apartment, were visiting their upstairs neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Alexander. All four were seated around the dining room table when the wall trembled, the floor heaved, and plaster showered them.

While the terrific wind swept along 85th street, rain was falling quietly and the light breeze scarcely swayed the trees.

ASSEMBLES AT 8506 EAST END AVENUE.

Passersby rushed to Riley's apartment and dashed down the track. A state trooper who saw the wall man run down the track found Lewis' body.

REBELS' VICTORY FETE SMASHED BY CAVALRY ATTACK

SEES VICTORY NEAR

BY JOHN CORNRYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—As the revolution enters the sixth week, Chapultepec castle today breathed freely for the first time since the insurrection began.

All military moves planned during the two weeks following the outbreak by Gen. Calles, President Pascual Gómez, and their military aids, have proven ineffective on all fronts. The complete disappearance of the Vera Cruz military front three weeks ago with the capture and execution of the leader, Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, was the most important development of the revolution, as it not only prevented other sections of the army from joining the revolution but also forced the military front several hundred miles.

Official Mexico took a much needed day off with the feeling that the great events of the revolution have already taken place. In military circles no great fight is expected unless the rebels decide to concentrate in Sonora and stake all on a final battle.

Morrow Goes to Summer Home.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who has kept in close daily touch with every move of the revolution, today, for the first time in five weeks, went with his family to their summer home in Cuernavaca. This in itself was looked upon as evidence that the expectation of the revolution being a success is not considered now as even a possibility.

Gen. Alvaro Obregon makes another week to get the march upon Chihuahua City under way, unless the rebels desert the state capital. Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, now occupying Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa, has also announced he will send probably a week reorganizing and concentrating troops there for continuation of the northward march against the Pacific coast rebels.

Quiet on Naco Front.

Naco, Ariz., April 7.—(AP)—The Naco, Sonora sector of the Mexican civil war was quiet today. Gen. Lucas Gómez, leader of the rebels remained entrenched, awaiting a surprise attack which did not materialize, while Gen. Fausto Topete awaited orders from Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the revolutionary armies.

Topete's rebel troops today and tonight were two and a half miles away from the federal trenches, recuperating and reorganizing after yesterday morning's three hour battle and an afternoon of lively sniping.

Attack as Rebels. Creeping up behind the mountain church, Señor Mora's Indians lay in the shadows waiting the signal of a conflict below, which was not long in coming. They could hear the sound of musical instruments and see the dim outlines of figures dancing in and out of the dim light of the moon, as the rebels celebrated the victory.

Up the long, straight central street of the town came other dark quickly moving shadows. Suddenly the plaza was all confusion and the shouts of unfailing rightness.

SINISTER FIVE RAID NEW JAIL; BAFFLE SHERIFF

Appear and Vanish; an Escape Plot or What?

Unless three sober workmen had a hallucination, the new and supposedly impregnable county jail was invaded with sinister intent last night by a band of five mysterious strangers posing the faculties of a Houdini. Two of the men were masked and a third carried a club, according to the workmen.

Whence they came and where they went remained an enigma early this morning despite a search of the underground labyrinths by Sheriff John E. Traeger and Chief Deputy Warden Frank Dahlke and a shotgun hunt of the grounds by a score of guards. Sheriff Traeger personally checked and rechecked the roster of 1,315 prisoners and found none missing.

Steamfitter Gives Alarm.

The alarm was raised by Jack Patton, a steamfitter. He pounded on the locked steel door of the pumping room in the jail basement, shouting that a jail delivery was in progress.

Bearfum Hummel, the guard stationed at the other side of the door, heard Patton's hysterical story and reported to Dahlke.

"I and the other men were in the engine room when these five fellows appeared from nowhere," Patton said, "They lined the three of us against the wall. One fellow brandished a club and told us he'd kill us if we said a word. We stood there about five minutes and then I looked around. The five men had vanished."

Corroborate Workmen's Story.

Dahlke called the sheriff and then questioned the steamfitter's two compatriots, W. H. Gleeson, 518 South Dearborn street, a mechanic employed by the Kinzie Engineering company to fix the newly installed pumping machinery, and Philip Cauley, 5609 South Dearborn street, night engineer of the jail. Both corroborated the steamfitter's story.

With Dahlke at his heels, Sheriff Traeger groped through one tunnel, ending at a blind wall, and then through a second connecting with a passage to the Criminal Court building. They found nothing, and Dahlke assured the sheriff that the only key to the steel door barring entrance to the Criminal court passage was in his own safe.

Another Blind Trail.

3 OF COUNCIL'S SLATE MAKERS READY TO BEGIN

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 7.—

(Special.)—Three Chicago aldermen, members of the council committee on committees, arrived here today to hold sessions at which the council organization for the next two years will be determined. The aldermen are:

Joseph B. McDonough (13th), B. A.

Cronson (4th), and Max Adamowski (28th).

With the arrival tomorrow of the two other members of the committee, Aldermen John S. Clark (30th) and Oscar F. Nelson (46th), the committee will choose its chairman and begin its deliberations. The chief task confronting the committee is to apportion 67 places on the council's 15 committees which were vacated with the defeat for reelection of ten aldermen and the election of two aldermen to other elective offices.

Four of the vacant places are looked on as prizes by the aldermen, and a scramble for them is expected to develop before the committee announces its appointments. Four candidates for the one finance committee vacancy besieged the members of the organization group before they left Chicago. With the important traction bills pending in the legislature a number of aldermen also have been pleading for places on the local transportation committee, which has three vacancies.

Sheriff Traeger questioned the three workmen a second time. Satisfied that the story was genuine, he ordered the recheck of the prisoners. Guards routed every man out of his bunk, peered under cots, tested the patent locks, and finally accounted for every inmate on the books.

After three hours' activity, the sheriff mopped his brow and professed himself baffled. Before going home, he ordered extra guards stationed at every cell block for the night.

Elevated Bridge Struck by Train; Killed

John Doyle, 65 years old, tender of the bridge which carries elevated trains across the Chicago river parallel to Van Buren street, was struck and instantly killed last night by an outbound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train. A fire company and a railroad wrecking crew worked three hours in the rain with constant peril from the third rail before extricating Doyle's body.

Beach Suicide Identified as Wealthy Parisian's Son

As the result of information furnished by friends of the dead man, the suicide who drank poison Saturday night on the beach on Northwestern university campus, leaving a few scrawled notes, yesterday was identified as Timon Armand Teardo de Coston, 19 years old. He was the estranged son of a wealthy Parisian who has spent many years in the orient, and who now holds an official position under the Turkish government at Constantinople. De Coston was a graduate of the Sorbonne in Paris, used seven years in France, and had spent most of his life in France.

Identification was made by William F. Sloan, 5419 Kenmore avenue, with whom de Coston lived at one time. Facts concerning his history and his circumstances were given by Mrs. Flora D. Walker, 1215 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, widow of a university professor, and her 19 year old daughter, Margaret, a liberal arts student at Northwestern and a member of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority.

Disinherited by Father.

His pride led him to conceal his present address from the Walkers, since he left there to live in cheap quarters, but his friendship for Margaret resulted in frequent calls at the Wilmette home for talks with the girl. He had frequently assured her of his affection for her, the girl said, but she did not take him seriously, especially as he admitted that in his present circumstances he could not contemplate marriage. It is thought that his message in French, "In the sincerity of my love and the depth of my sorrow I have vowed to you a noble and everlasting love," referred to Margaret.

Further evidence of De Coston's devotion to the girl was an insurance policy found when police opened his body after reading the story in THE TRIBUNE. He advised police that de Coston had at one time lived in Wilmette, and later it was learned that he lived at the Walker home until a few months ago.

According to the facts furnished by Mrs. Walker, De Coston was the favorite son of his father, who spends his summers in France. But, he had told her, his father's affections had been alienated by his brother, who is a successful agent in Paris, and his sister, who also lives there. When his father disinherited him about 1922, de Coston came to this country and became a partner in the personal importing firm of Coston-Johnson in New York.

His partner, he had stated, abandoned the company's assets, amounting to about $20,000, some time in 1924, leaving de Coston broke. He arrived in Chicago penniless and worked at anything he could get to do. His latest employment, so far as known, was as a clerk in the china department of a loop store.

LIQUOR TOTING CHARGE DENIED BY MICHAELSON

SUES FOR $250,000

Dry Voting Congressman Breaks His Silence.

Congressman M. A. Michaelson, dry voting representative, yesterday issued his first public statement regarding the reported seizure of a fancy stock of liquors in his baggage at Key West, Fla., on Jan. 3, 1928. It was a telegram of 230 words sent to newspapers.

The first half of the telegram is devoted to an explanation that the congressman, in view of the publicity given the liquor indictment, voted against him by a federal grand jury in Jacksonville, Fla., last October, has "deemed it my duty" to tell the truth to the public. In the second half, Michaelson denies he smuggled an assortment of expensive booze from Cuba, as he is accused, but he makes no explanation for the allegation of customs officials that they confiscated six bottles and a key after one of his trunks started to leak.

His Defense Kept Secret.

The congressman, who is kept a secret during his trial, said for May 6 at Jacksonville. He has consistently refused to give an interview and has employed Attorney Benedict Short of Chicago as his counsel.

"Does the congressman mean," the lawyer was asked, "that some one planted the liquor in his baggage?" Or does he contend that he didn't own the trunk?

Attorney Short did not answer the question.

Congressman Michaelson, in his telegram, said he was impelled to make a statement because of the publicity attending his indictment. The first public statement was made March 28 when information regarding the indictment leaked out. For fifteen months, according to reports from Washington, D. C., the dry congressman had the support of influential prohibition leaders in trying to have the prosecution stopped.

Michaelson's Statement.

On April 1 Michaelson, who had been sought for two days by deputy United States marshals with a warrant, surrendered at the Federal building here and posted bond for his appearance at Jacksonville. He refused to be interviewed, saying he would make a public statement as soon as he acquainted himself with the charges. Now, after conferences with lawyers and political advisers, the congressman has made this statement:

"Because of the widespread pub-dicty given an indictment charging that I violated the laws of the United States by transporting liquor in my trunks and baggage, I deem it my duty to give to the members-elect of the house of representatives of the Seventy-first congress, of which I am also a member-elect, my constituents of the seventh congressional district of Illinois and the people of the country at large the truth and facts regarding this matter.

Denies Liquor Charges.

"First—My trunks and baggage transported to the United States from Cuba did not contain any intoxicating liquor of any sort or character."

"Second—My trunks and baggage, upon arrival at the port of Key West, contained no intoxicating liquor of any kind."

"Third—My trunks and baggage transported in the United States did not contain any intoxicating liquor of any kind."

"Fourth—I committed no offense against the laws of the United States."

"Fifth—I am not guilty of any charge contained in the indictment."

"Sixth—At this bar of justice I will furnish beyond a possibility of doubt the truth of this my statement."

Dispatches from Washington yesterday indicated that an investigation of Michaelson's case before the oath is administered to its dry voting member next Monday, when the special session convenes.

SWEDISH FLYER TELLS STORY OF NOBILE RESCUE

Graphic descriptions of the land of ice floes in which he rescued Gen. Umberto Nobile last summer in the arctic wastes held the attention of the audience at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon when Capt. Elmer Lundborg, Swedish aviator, told of his experience.

Although his narrative of the rescue was strictly chronological, and although it was carefully scientific in the notes with which it handled exact dates and locations, it was filled with colorful descriptive material of a type expected only from an artist.

These were his details, seen from his plane: Tiny shacks set slantwise from one red brick store in the final outpost of civilization, where his men bought fur garments for the trip; hundreds of sea birds doing "flying stunts" in front of the planes as they started off into the brilliant sunshines beyond Spitzbergen; the top of the streets, and other details like them, and his stories of how Nobile had moved his entire camp, in the polar bear that had been killed rather than bring the polar bear to the camp; and how he himself, after he had rescued Nobile and gone back for the others and wrecked his own plane in a floe, sat in the melting ice, a prisoner like the five Italians, smoking cigarettes that had had a dousing of salt water, were high points of his talk.

ATTACKS GIRL; SHOT IN FIGHT WITH POLICEMAN

2 Assaults Stir Demand for Rape Death Penalty.

(Pictures on back page.) Two attacks upon young women only yesterday morning, one committed by three men who kidnapped their victim on the street, and the other by a man who was shot by a policeman as he tried to escape, gave new impetus yesterday to demands for favorable action by the legislature on the Court bill which would bring rapidity in the electric chair.

Punishment for rape under the present law is one year to life imprisonment. The new measure, introduced by Senator Thomas J. Courtney of Oregon, provides a penitentiary sentence of five years to life or the death penalty when two or more men act jointly in committing the crime. It would put gang rape among the capital crimes such as murder and kidnapping for ransom.

The Courtney bill now is pending in the Senate committee on judiciary. Senator Courtney said yesterday he would urge its advancement on the Senate calendar this week.

See Remedy in Death Penalty.

"Almost every day in Chicago some fresh outrage occurs to show the need for more drastic punishment of young hoodlums with no respect for womanhood," Senator Courtney said. "In some cases, although the unfortunate victim may be crippled for life, the rapists escape with light prison sentences and in a year or two are free. Fear of the death penalty, I believe, would go a long way toward putting an end to these vicious and shocking crimes."

In the first attack yesterday the three youths involved crashed their automobile trying to escape and one of them, Edward Zowsky, alias Andrew Heinz, 20 years old, 1515 17th street, sustained a skull fracture and internal injuries. His companions are in jail.

Kidnap Girl in Automobile. With Zowsky were Frank Foltz, 21 years old, 1531 17th street, and Walter Wojciech, 21 years old, 1445 11th street. The three youths seized Marie Sedor, 1801 Cullerton street, a waitress, at Lincoln and 18th streets and took her to Broadview in an auto.

Attracted by the girl's screams as one of the trio, who she said was Wojciech, assaulted her, Chief of Police Andrew Borg of Broadview stopped the car, put the girl in his own machine, and ordered the men to follow him to the police station. En route they swerved around and raced away,

Argentina Also Puts in Claim to Antarctic Land

(Copyright: 1929, By the New York Times.)

Buenos Aires, April 7.—(AP)—A resolution describing the De King killing as "a heinous crime committed in cold blood against a wife and mother" was adopted yesterday by the Argentine parliament. The resolution, introduced by Senator Lopez, into a controversial reopener of the century-old Anglo-Argentine dispute over the possession of the Falkland Islands. It is asserted that the Argentine title to Antarctic territories is clearer and more logical than any other nation's and the government is urged to defend its national sovereignty in the face of British and American claims.

FALLS ASLEEP AT AUTO WHEEL; DIES

New Paris, Ill., April 7.—(Special)—Believed to have fallen asleep at the wheel of his auto, Dewey Elske, 30, Newton, Ill., died yesterday. He was 30 yesterday.

He was found in the wreckage of his car, north of Marshall, late last night.

RULES TODAY ON PROSECUTION IN DE KING KILLING

Judge May Supplant Carberry in Case.

The appointment of a special prosecutor may be made today by Judge John K. Newhall in the Kane County Circuit court at Geneva, Ill., in the De King killing case, in view of the announced refusal of Attorney General Oscar E. Carberry to act.

State's Attorney George D. Carberry yesterday stated he will leave further action in the case to Judge Newhall and would not oppose the appointment of a special prosecutor.

It was doubted that Judge Newhall will recall the grand jury for a special session, as the body is due to assemble on April 22.

Held for Manslaughter.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who shot

Mrs. Lillian De King to death during a dry raid upon the De King home in Aurora, was ordered held for grand jury action on a manslaughter charge by the coroner's jury. The jury also suggested investigation of the making of an affidavit as to the sale of liquor in the De King home by Eugene Fairchild, a prohibition snooper employed by Carberry.

Fairchild is under perjury charge and will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace C. B. Dickerson in Aurora.

Deputy Smith, who fired upon Mrs. De King a moment after he had clubbed his husband, Joseph De King, into insensibility, is a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital in Elgin, suffering from a pistol wound in the leg inflicted by Gerald, the 15 year old son of the De Kings. He will be unable to appear in court for at least six months, physicians say.

Opposes Carberry in Case.

Attorney Robert A. Milroy, for the De King family, has declared he will resist the handling of the case by Carberry, since Carberry, in his petition requesting intervention of the attorney general, stated he had formed a legal opinion in the case.

A resolution describing the De King killing as "a heinous crime committed in cold blood against a wife and mother" was adopted yesterday by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The resolution said that men attracted to the enforcement of the proletarian code are far below the standard of quality and morality of men in any other body of law enforcement officials."

KILLED BY GAS FROM AUTO.

John L. Ladd, 42, a 2500-watt auto electrician, carpenter, was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas in the garage at the rear of his home yesterday.

OFFER $10,000 FOR CHECKS TAKEN IN HOLDUP ON TRAIN

The echo of a train robbery March 6 in which an official of the First National bank of Joliet was robbed of a large number of cancelled checks with a face value of $108,000 by two men armed with sawed-off shotguns has been given the added dimension of a $10,000 reward for the return of the missing checks. The announcement was made by Vincent W. Gallagher, superintendent of the bonding and claim department of the Standard Accident and Insurance Company of New York, which insured the bank against loss.

The robbery occurred on a Joliet-bound Rock Island train. The robbers boarded the train at the Englewood station and held up a vice president of the Joliet bank, who was returning with the checks after they had been put through the Federal Reserve bank in Chicago. The robbers jumped off the train with the bag of checks at 29th street and escaped in a waiting automobile.

Most of the stolen checks, it was said, were drawn against the accounts of farmers in the Joliet district and were payable to mail order houses. Their total face value of their amounts impossible, according to Mr. Gallagher, with the result that the bank may be held liable for the amount of the checks, though the checks are of no value to the thief.

DOCTORS WARNED TO REDUCE COST OF MEDICAL CARE

Leader Reveals Plan in Ethics Battle.

tient served, according to Dr. Harris' plan.

Dr. Harris has proposed his plan to medical societies in many parts of the country, and, while the details never became generally public here, they have been widely discussed within the profession.

The trustees of the Public Health Institute have formally agreed to turn it over entirely to the medical society, but Dr. Harris revealed that up to the present he has been unable to induce that society to agree to the plan.

Dr. Harris in an article recently published in the Physician's Bulletin of the American Medical Association described his proposal. Although agreeing with the medical society that the Public Health Institute has been operated unethically up to the present, he used the example shown by the institute and its financial success as demonstrating the feasibility of his plan.

Sees Way to Solve Problem.

The operation of such an organization in an ethical manner by the medical profession as a whole is "the one solution of this enormous, important economic proposition that is confronting the profession today," Dr. Harris said.

Any control of medical services is possible if physicians continue to ignore the growing complaints of the public against exorbitant high costs of medical care, the physician advised in his article. He mentioned that Julius Rosenwald has formed a foundation, with an endowment of millions of dollars, "for the purpose of enabling the so-called middle class, which is composed of the great majority of the people, to obtain the highest class of medical service at a cost which is within their means."

Other lay organizations and foundations are springing up with the same object in view, Dr. Harris said, and he expressed the fear that physicians would suffer unless they themselves led the way into this type of project.

"Medicine on Business Basis."

Explaining his plan for giving the highest class of medical care to all the sick all the time, he said within their means, Dr. Harris said the medical profession should enter into organization upon a business basis.

"I believe," he said, "that every county medical society should have a headquarters properly equipped for rendering all kinds of medical service to all classes of people; and it should provide care for all patients that require hospitalization. It is not to be considered in any sense a free clinic. Every patient who receives service, in this institution should pay for it."

"Is it possible to create such an organization and put it on a paying basis? I say most emphatically that it is. We have in Chicago today an institution known as the Public Health Institute, which was organized with that general object in view. It is now treating daily on an average of about 1,800 patients. These

BEST DRESSED WOMAN, JUDGING BY BILLS, TO APPEAR IN N. Y. COURT

New York, April 7.—[Special]—The world's best dressed woman, judging from the cost of her clothes, is scheduled to appear in Manhattan Supreme court tomorrow and air her domestic troubles.

She is Mrs. Tillie Leopold, seeking a separation from Joseph Leopold, sixty, twice her age, who has amassed more than a million in the cobblestone business.

When Mrs. Leopold filed her suit last year she demanded $2,000 a month temporary alimony, claiming she couldn't exist on less.

Her husband, in his answer, said he had married Tillie while she was toiling as a stenographer and that ever since she had cost him an average of $100,000 a year. He said her ambition was to be the best dressed woman in the world, and he listed her annual expenditures for clothes as follows:

Leotard, $1,000; shoes, $2,000; step-ins, $1,500; stockings, $1,000; fur coats, $1,000; gloves and mufflers, $1,000.

Leopold added that he also had given his wife $100,000 in jewelry, which she pledged, losing the money in Wall street. The judge compromised on alimony of $900 a month. Mrs. Leopold charges cruelty.

Patients pay for the service they receive.

The physicians rendering the service are all paid; the lowest price paid any physician for working in the institution is $275 a month, and the amount paid runs from $275 a month to $500 and even $800 a month. The institution has acquired a large sum. It is making on an average perhaps over $100,000 not a year.

"About 4 per cent of the population, as I remember," Dr. Fusey said, "pays income tax, and that leaves at treatment to the patient, but furnishes him also with everything he may need in his treatment. It furnishes him with medicines, with laboratory work and chemical analyses, for with everything that enters into the diagnosis and treatment of the class of sick received by this institution.

Trustees Would Cooperate.

"The trustees who have this institution in hand have been willing to turn it over to the medical society if the medical society would accept it. The trouble up to date has been to get the society to see what immense advantages it would be to the entire profession, as well as to the people."

"The institution is bound to go ahead. It is flourishing and cannot be stopped, and to me is the one solution of this enormous, important, economic proposition that is confronting the profession today."

"Every physician in the organization should be called on to render service in the institution. For this service he would naturally be paid, the amount to be determined, of course, by the institution itself."

Private Practice Unhanded.

"This would not interfere in the least with private practice because all the physicians in the country who are able to pay the regular fees should have their own physician and should not be eligible to receive service in the institution."

Dr. William Allen Fusey, also of Chicago, former president of the American Medical Association, remarking in the same bulletin on Dr. Harris' statement, agreed that the medical profession should provide medical care for the man who makes from $1,500 to $5,000 a year.

"About 4 per cent of the population, as I remember," Dr. Fusey said, "pays income tax, and that leaves at least 25 per cent of the population that cannot take care of present needs before the medical society, coming on its merit might well be withheld. However, I do want to say that Dr. Schmidt is one of my most trusted advisers, one of Chicago's outstanding physicians, and a man of great goodness. He has done much for the welfare of our city and its citizens owe him a debt of gratitude for his many kindly acts."

"As Dr. Schmidt's case is now pending before the medical society, coming on its merit might well be withheld. However, I do want to say that Dr. Schmidt is one of my most trusted advisers, one of Chicago's outstanding physicians, and a man of great goodness. WOMAN VICTIM OF STRANGLER IS FOUND IN AUTO

Mother of Two Slain, Left in Parked Car.

New York, April 7.—[Special]—Death counterfeited sleep for at least two hours in a New York street before a man reached into an automobile parked at a curb and touched the forehead of "sleeper." He found it so cold, and the police had a case of savage murder by strangulation to solve.

The victim was Mrs. Linda Beggs, about 45 years old, twice married and the mother of two children. She had been beaten and choked to death.

Police Commissioner Grover Whalen said the crime must be that of a devious person.

The murder was discovered by Arthur Owy, a fire lieutenant. He went to the door of his firehouse to cool off. He saw several women grouped at the automobile nearby. He went to investigate.

"There's a woman in there," said one of the group, "and it looks like she is dead."

He looked in through the open window and discovered the woman was

The police notified Dr. Charles Novak, chief medical examiner. He made a preliminary examination, said death had been caused by strangulation, fine red marks being apparent on the neck and said the woman had been killed probably some time after midnight Saturday.

Officials said Mrs. Beggs probably was murdered elsewhere, perhaps in a speakeasy and the car stolen to facilitate concealment of the crime.

FRENCH LINER PARIS FLOATED OFF MUD FLATS

New York, April 7.—(AP)—After being stuck on the mud flats off Brooklyn for 26 hours, the French liner Paris was freed by fifteen tugs today and continued her interrupted voyage to Europe this afternoon.

The floating of the huge liner was accomplished so quietly that passengers who remained on the ship for the night were not awakened.

Jean Tiller, an official of the line, reported to the line offices that an inspection showed the liner had suffered no damage.

The steamer went aground at 2:55 a.m. Saturday during a heavy fog.

The ship was lightened by the removal of 3,000 tons of fuel oil and 500 tons of water ballast. Several efforts were made Saturday to pull the vessel out of the mud, but it was not until high tide this morning that fifteen tugs were able to pull her free.

The passengers, numbering more than 1,000, were given the opportunity last night to leave the vessel, but few availed themselves of it.

After she was taken off the Paris was taken to Quarantine, where the oil and water were reloaded, and she headed out to sea shortly after 3 o'clock.

3 U. S. SAILORS LOST ON VOLCANIC ISLE IN PACIFIC

Search of Five Days Is Unproductive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service] MANILA, P. I., April 7.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of three U. S. Navy sailors from the light cruiser Memphis here Feb. 20. Search was made for the missing men for five days but was finally abandoned when the Memphis sailed for the China coast with the U. S. Asiatic fleet at the close of its winter sojourn.

The trio disappeared on Coron Island, a small volcanic formation among the Visayan Islands, about 12 miles east of Culion Island, where the famous leper colony by that name is located. While the fleet was remaining in the islands the Memphis, together with the U. S. S. Milwaukee, was anchored on Feb. 20 in small bay on the west coast of Coron Island. A recreation party went ashore. Two men failed to report back to the ship and a searching party of two men went ashore the following day, but did not return.

Return Three Days Later.

One of the two men originally missing, James E. Fay, Beaufort, S. C., came back to the ship on Feb. 23. He said he and his companion, A. B. Powell, Huntington, W. Va., became lost when they were forced to live on brackish water for many hours, and that Powell, becoming "water crazy," leaped from a cliff into the ocean in search of fresh water, and was drowned before he could be reached.

Fay finally found his way back to the beach and met a searching party. Members of the party said that he was perfectly calm and collected and did not appear to have withheld under any compulsion. He asked calmly for a cup of coffee.

Failing to hear from the searching party, which consisted of George Cramer, Oakwood, Cal., and William E. Zachary, Providence, Ky., other searching parties were sent out, but no trace could be found of the missing sailors. An inquiry was made into Fay's story by ship's officers and he was completely exonerated.

Desolate Spot.

Coron Island is described by those who joined the searching parties as one of the most desolate, inaccessible and precipitous spots in the Philippines. It is practically uninhabited. A few civilized Filipinos mostly fishermen live on the northern portion, and there are aboriginal people who live on other portions about whom little is known.

Naval planes flew over the island, but found no trace of the lost sailors. One plausible theory is that they may have fallen into one of a number of dangerous holes in the precipitous formation on the upper levels of the island. One hole was discovered that was known to be more than 100 feet deep, and the ground around it is said to be unsafe. The bottom was not visible.

Conference to Make Life at Sea Safer Opens in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service] LONDON, April 7.—The International "Safety of Life" conference at which the United States will be represented, opens here tomorrow under the presidency of Sir Philip Cuniffister. The conference is expected to ratify an international agreement regarding measures to insure the safety of life on the sea. It was originally drawn up in 1914, but never made operative because of the war.

CALLS ON HOOVER TO ENFORCE ALL OF CONSTITUTION

the office of President, but that oath provides still further that he will, to the best of his ability, preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

Finally, the amendment directed House attention to these utterances in the President's inaugural address: "Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials select what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

"It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the constitution and the right of representation shall be reduced in proportion to existing disfranchisement in any wise," the letter amendment prohibits any state from giving preference in the matter of suffrage to one citizen over another on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude, and the duty of enforcing these amendments rests with the congress and the President.

"No laws have been passed to enforce these amendments. They are now wholly and grossly nullified in many states. Negroes are counted in the population for purposes of representation in the lower house of congress and then disfranchised, giving those states disproportionate representation—unfair to the other states of the Union, and thereby making elections to the house of representatives and of a President illegal and unconstitutional."

Quoted Acceptance Address.

After quoting excerpts from the Kansas City platform of the Republican party, Mr. Tinkham reminded Mr. Hoover that in his acceptance address he said:

"Whoever is elected President takes an oath not only to faithfully execute

"It has well been said by great statesmen that laws should be crystallized public opinion." Mr. Tinkham concluded. "The 14th and 15th amendments were placed in the constitution as the result of a great civil war, were in conformity with the principles of the constitution and its proper functions, and added a greater total of freedom and liberty than existed before their adoption."

"The 19th amendment was placed in the constitution under a subterfuge as a war measure and by the expenditure of a vast amount of money. It is not in conformity with the principles of the constitution and its proper functions, and instead of adding to the total of freedom and liberty it has established a bureaucratic tyranny—yes, a despotism of the most offensive character—and has taken away from citizens one of their most cherished rights, the right of governing their private conduct."

Americans Will Unveil in Spain Shaft to Columbus

BUENOS AIRES, April 7.—(UPI)—The United States cruiser Raleigh, flagship of the European squadron, anchored today off Palos near the cruiser Almirante Cervera, one of the finest of the Spanish navy. The Raleigh will remain here until the unveiling of Palos on April 31 of the huge monument to Christopher Columbus erected by American friends of Spain.

BODY OF MISSING AURORA WOMAN FOUND IN RIVER

A two weeks' search for Miss Margaret Jungels, 40 years old, member of a well known Aurora, Ill., family, who disappeared from her home on March 22, ended yesterday when the woman's body was discovered in the Fox River near New York street, Aurora. No marks of violence were found on the body, and Aurora police are inclined to the belief Miss Jungels committed suicide.

Miss Jungels, who formerly was an insurance agent with an office in Chicago, was a maid of the women's department of the Loyal Order of Moose. Recently, it was said, she has been engaged in directing the activities of the James J. Davis life membership class of the Moose organization.

Miss Jungels made her home with her mother, Mrs. Frank Jungels, at Aurora. The mother, according to police, expressed the belief that Miss Jungels ended her own life because of brooding over ill health. She had been ill for a year, the mother told authorities.

SPECIAL JURY TO TAKE UP CANAL INQUIRY TODAY

Now Evidence Ready for Windup of Quiz.

With the impaneling of a new special grand jury today, special prosecutors under Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch are expected to move into the last phase of their investigation of sanitary district graft.

A special venire of 100 men will appear before Judge John J. Sullivan this afternoon and presentation of evidence by Thomas Slusser, Otto Fug, and George Callahan, assistant state's attorneys, will begin tomorrow or Wednesday.

New Evidence Ready.

Although remaining mum as to what witnesses will be called first or what evidence will be presented, Mr. Fuguer declared yesterday that "we are fully prepared to go ahead." During the two months since the January grand jury adjourned, he said, the prosecutors have gathered and classified a great deal of further evidence about pay rolls and fraudulent contracts in addition to that presented in January.

"It appears from the reports of the January special grand jury," said the spokesman for the April jury, "that the pay rolls were abundantly padded; that many members of the general assembly were included in the pay roll; that contributions in a manner provocative of fraud; that a vast deficit now exists in the bond fund; and that there has been gross mismanagement and incomparable carelessness and a startling disregard by trustees of their duties."

"Diverse persons have been guilty of many palpable omissions of duty."

West Auto Company Records.

After presenting the January evidence to the new jury, the prosecutors are expected to go further into the north shore canal road and cinder path scandal. They are anxious also to get hold of the books of the Central Auto Service company, now held by the state senate investigation committee but ordered impounded by the federal court when the senate committee is through with them. These records, showing evidence of expenditures for liquor, women, and powder puffs by sanitary district trustees, are certain to be utilized by the prosecutors.

While the April special grand jury continues its meeting under way in Chicago, the military district financial problems are expected to come to a head in Springfield this week, when the legislature is wrestling with the problem of allowing the new board to issue bonds without a referendum. The Barbour bill allowing that authority is on second reading in the senate.

Expect Action in Senate.

It is now believed that the senate will proceed to dispose of the Barbour bill without waiting for the report of its investigating committee, headed by Senator W. Starr. The committee's sessions over the past week have argued such interdimensional differences between the members that it is deemed unlikely that no report can be agreed upon.

Meanwhile, in the house of representatives, R. J. Branson's committee is proceeding with its investigation of members on the district pay roll. Although the report of this committee will have no direct bearing on the bond issue bill, Representative Branson believes it will settle once and for all the ethics of legislators drawing fees from other governmental agencies. His committee is scheduled to continue its hearings at Springfield next Thursday or Friday.

Firemen Hurt as Blaze Wrecks Old Riding Club

Fire wrecked the interior of a vacant two story brick building at 943 North State street last night. The structure, formerly housed the Cottelle Riding club. Capt. John Sullivan of hook and ladder company 5 was injured when a burning staircase collapsed, plunging him into the basement. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

SPRING WEATHER JAMS HIGHWAYS TO OVERFLOWING

Traffic Congestion Worst Since Last Fall.

Only 5.65 per cent of Illinois motor license fees are spent in the Chicago area. Cook county pays approximately 50 per cent of the revenue.

(Picture on back page.) April's first Sunday found Chicago's thoroughfares and Cook county's highways jammed with automobiles. It was the worst congestion since last September, and traffic officers predicted that holiday motoring in the metropolitan area during the summer of 1929 will offer even more brake and gear shift exercise for drivers than in 1928.

The high temperatures and the sunshines brought out the crowds, undeterred by an occasional light shower in sections of the county. The familiar intersections, those that caused the trouble last fall, were still there unchanged, choking traffic down to a crawling pace. Spring tourists added to the holiday jam.

Roads Lag Behind Cars.

The motorists enjoyed a few roads and streets widened since last fall, but the congestion indicated that pavement improvements have lagged behind the increased 100 per cent increase since last year in the number of automobiles owned in Cook county. The $5,000,000 paid annually by Cook county car owners in license fees was not represented in street and road building. Only 5.65 per cent of Illinois' motor license fees are spent in the Chicago area, whereas Cook county pays approximately a half of the state's total revenue from this source. The same proportions will apply when the state collects Gov. Emmerson's 3 cent gasoline tax for $71,000,000 a year beginning on Aug. 1.

Bottle Neck at City's Edge.

Maj. George A. Quinlan, superintendent of county highways, watched yesterday's blockades and concluded that a closer coordination is needed among state, county, and city in working out the traffic problem of the metropolitan area. He found the greatest congestion at the edge of the city, where several country roads were feeding automobiles into one city boulevard.

"The state's road building program for the outskirts of this metropolitan area will not give the best results unless there is a plan that takes into consideration the problems within the city," Maj. Quinlan said. "There has been some discussion regarding the establishment of a coordinating board of management for street and road building, but no initial steps have been taken."

LOWMAN REPORT ON DRY KILLINGS FALSE, WET SAYS

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(Special.)—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman's recent report disclosing the killings by prohibition agents during the last nine years was attacked as untruthful and deceptive today by Henry L. Curran, president of the Association Against Prohibition.

"Take Lowman's statement that during the calendar year 1925 and the calendar year 1926 to date, no persons have been killed by customs officers," he said. "That statement is untrue." Mr. Curran then cited the deaths of Leo Bois, a longshoreman, shot at Hoboken, N. J., July 24, 1926, and of Jacob Hansen, shot at Niagara Falls today by Henry L. Curran, president on May 4.

CANADA SCARED OUT OF TREATY BY TARIFF TALK

St. Lawrence Waterway Plan Is Delayed.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune From Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 7.—(Special)—President Hoover will be advised that there is no possibility of the negotiation of a treaty with Canada for joint construction of the St. Lawrence waterway while tariff legislation is pending. In consequence the President has informed members of congress interested in the project that further steps in this direction must await the adjournment of the coming special session of congress.

If increases on duties applying on imports of farm and other Canadian products are not so high as to be disadvantageous to that country the President is understood to be hopeful that a treaty can be negotiated next winter.

Fornests Vary Widely.

Still, even when completion of the project is within seven or eight years thereafter, or at the most within ten or twelve years, according to sponsors for the project. Others incline to the belief that final opening of the waterway may not come much earlier than 20 years hence.

The Canadian government has indicated that it is favorable to the project, but hesitates about going ahead with it in view of the fact that the United States which has been stirred up, not only by proposals for increasing standpoints and desirable from an economic point of view, but stated that the question of its advisability at the present time depends upon the successful solution of a number of economic and financial difficulties. It was stated that no export of Canadian power could be per-approval of their scheme when the time is ripe.

The correspondence between former Secretary of State Kellogg and the Canadian government during the period between April, 1927, and April, 1928, developed certain points of agreement between the two nations.

The Canadian government agreed that the project was feasible from an engineering standpoint and desirable from an economic point of view, but stated that the question of its advisability at the present time depends upon the successful solution of a number of economic and financial difficulties. This has since been done, but the Canadian government is not yet ready to proceed with the negotiation of the treaty.

When the treaty stage is reached President Hoover will appoint commissioners to meet the Canadian commissioners.

Rep. Dempsey Attacks Proposal.

A tentative understanding relative to a division of the costs resulted from the correspondence. Sponsors of the St. Lawrence project are satisfied with the arrangement proposed, but Representative S. Wallace Dempsey (Rep., N. Y.), chairman of the house river and harbor committee and leading advocate of the all-American waterway, commented that it is unfair to the United States and that he will oppose it if it comes before congress.

Under proposed division of costs the Canadian government, besides completing the Welland ship canal, would improve that section of the St. Lawrence river from the point where it opens to the two countries to the sea. The United States would take care of the St. Lawrence river where it forms the international boundary from Lake Ontario to Cornwall, Ont., and St. Regis, N.

It would also deepen to 31 feet the connecting channels of the upper great lakes and build new 30 foot locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Some Items Not Approved.

In the division of costs both countries would be given credit for expenditures already made, but the United States has withheld approval of some of the items which Canada believes should be included.

Sponsors of the St. Lawrence project have estimated that on the basis of the division of costs proposed by Canada the United States' share would be $201,883,000. This does not include the building of power plants which private interests may construct under leases from the government. The Canadian government during the correspondence estimated that future expenditures of the United States in connection with the project would be $119,347,000. This total included power development.

The American costs on the basis of the $201,883,000 total would include $184,851,000 for developing the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence, $1,833,000 for the Thousand Islands section, and $65,100,000 for deepening the upper lakes channels and buildings locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Canadian share of the costs, according to the figures of American sponsors of the project, would be $228,049,000, while according to the Canadian government, besides completing the Welland ship canal, would improve that section of the St. Lawrence river from the point where it opens to the two countries to the sea. The United States would take care of the St. Lawrence river where it forms the international boundary from Lake Ontario to Cornwall, Ont., and St. Regis, N.

dian figures the total would be $318,770,000. Both of these totals include $100,000,000 for the Welland ship canal, most of which has already been expended. Future Canadian expenditures, after deducting the Welland canal item, would be much less than those of the United States.

129 MILES AND A 34 HOUR TRIP FOR ONE NICKEL

New York, April 7.—(Special)—You can travel for 429 miles and for 24 hours for a nickel in New York City, noted for its high living costs. The discovery is that of Phillip M. Eiswanger, a 21 year old Nebraskan, who dropped a nickel in a coin box on the 14th street station of the 7th avenue subway at 2 p. m. Friday and emerged at the same station at 12 midnight Saturday.

Eiswanger spent a day and a half on New York's underground and elevated system. Shifting his route by means of a map, he systematically rode up and down every elevated and subway line in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, Jamaica, and Bronx, never twice traveling the same route.

Eiswanger successfully traversed the 7th avenue subway, the 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th avenue lines, the B. M. T. and the I. R. T. east side line, then spent seven hours in Queens and Jamaica and wound his trip going over the Brooklyn line, which last took him considerably over half a day.

40,000 QUARTS OF RUM IN TOMATO BOXES SEIZED

Richmond, Va., April 7.—(AP)—An accidental discovery in local railroad yards today led to the seizure of approximately 40,000 quarts of alcohol bottled in boxes. Return, which were being shipped in 417 boxes labeled "tomatoes" from Hollywood, Fla., to Newark, N. J.

Policemen said they had no definite clues and regarded the shippers' names as dubious.

There were 550 cases in the freight car, 112 of which did contain tomatoes. A broken truck on the box car led to the discovery.

After car repairers had worked on it a decision was made to transfer the "tomatoes" to another car. This transfer had been partly completed before the attention of railroad employees was attracted by drips from one of the cases.

ALDERMEN FIRE BACK AT TRANSIT BILL OPPOSITION

Deny Foreign Language Press Is Against Bill.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
Chicago aldermen have started a back fire on alleged opposition to the transportation bills pending before the general assembly.

At the house hearing on the bills in Springfield last Thursday Edward Morris, a lawyer, appeared in opposition to the bills. Mr. Morris said frankly he was employed by A. W. Miller, who represented 17 foreign language newspapers. A check was made Saturday and yesterday of 13 of these publications and A.M. Jacob Arvey (24th) notified Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman of the house committee, considering the bills, that the dozen editors interviewed were not opposed to the bills.

Editors to Have Hearing.
"I have asked and it has been promised that these foreign language newspaper editors should have a hearing next week by the Schnackenberg committee," said Ald. Arvey yesterday. "I am not questioning what Attorney Morris acted in good faith, but all of the editors we have been able to reach agree that they had not addressed any one to the legislature as opposed to the bills. These publications include the La Tribune Polana, the Trans-Atlantic, the Cleveland, Polish Daily News, the Denk Blatt, Polish Union Daily, Jewish Daily Press, Jewish Progress, Reform Advocate, Polish Daily Zgoda, Jewish Tribune, and the Novy Svijet. Most of the editors said that they favored the bills, while a few said that they had not taken a position because of lack of time to study the bills. But all of them objected to being represented as opposed to the bills."

Attorney Morris pleaded before the legislature for a referendum on two transportation ordinances. He argued that the people be permitted to say whether they desired a fixed term franchise or an indeterminate permit. No bill on that subject is pending before the legislature. An optional referendum will or will not be offered the public as the aldermen and mayor decide.

Many Legislators Listen In.

No public hearing by a general assembly committee in Chicago has attracted so many legislators as attended the transit hearing last Saturday. Among those who listened to most of the speeches were Representatives Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Calvin T. Weis, William V. Pacelli, Edwin B. Deacon, George W. Blackwell, J.

OPEN NEW COURT TODAY IN MOVE TO SPEED UP JUSTICE

State's Attorney John A. Swanson has completed preparations for the opening of the new branch of the Municipal court, which is to start operating this morning as the first step in the speeding up of criminal justice and saving the time of witnesses in the more serious cases, such as robbery, burglary, rape, and automobile theft.

Judge Edgar Jonas has been assigned to preside over the new court. It is the purpose of the officials to send the witnesses immediately before the grand jury when a defendant is ordered held to the Criminal court for trial. This will save an extra trip of the witnesses to the Criminal court and will save at least two weeks' time between the holdovers in the lower court and the time of grand jury action.

"We are making arrangements for the regular grand jury to hold all day sessions at the start of this new scheme," said Prosecutor Swanson. "It may be that later on we can regulate the system so this will not be necessary, but at present I do not see how we can do otherwise."

W. Harris, Albert J. Mancin, Mrs. Anna Wilmuth Ickes, David I. Swanson, Michael A. Ruddy, William J. Ward, Frank Ryan, George Garry, John J. McNamee, John M. Lee, Matt Flanagan, R. M. Thomas, J. O'Brien, G. G. Jacobson, Alexander Wilson, Charles Cain, Michael J. Igne, Grover C. Heflin, John C. Garritt, Frank A. McCarthy, Thomas J. O'Grady, and Senators Adelbert H. Roberts and Frank McDermott.

The next public hearing will be held in Springfield next week on Tuesday or Wednesday. The exact date has not been decided upon.

AFGHAN TRIBES SACK PERSIAN TOWN; KILL MANY

Shah May Intervene in Revolt Ridden Land.

By H. BASSIL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TEHERAN, April 7.—The invasions of the turbulent Afghan tribes on the frontier towns and the unprotected regions of eastern Persia are becoming more frequent, with the continued absence of authority in western Afghanistan. The military authorities received a wire from Kabul, about 50 miles from the Afghan frontier, reporting that Kalesorkh, a nearby town, had been sacked by Afghan raiders. The inhabitants were robbed and many killed and wounded.

The fugitives transported four horses to the governor of the district to furnish a vivid proof of the extent of the atrocities and forced action. The Afghans have moved to another rich and undefended region and now raids are expected momentarily.

May Bring Intervention.

This situation affords Persia an excellent excuse for intervention in the muddled Afghan affairs and she is reported to be quite willing to take such action.

However, Persia has her hands full with her own nomads within the Persian border. Semitico, the noted Kurdish chieftain, whose forays cost Persia so much in blood and in money, and who fled to Turkey three years ago, has returned to Persian Kurdistan, where he has entrenched himself in a strong mountain position. Heavy reinforcements have been sent to the army units in that district, with orders to move against Semitico.

Ibn Saud Smashes Bedouins.

BASRA, Iraq, April 7.—Reliable reports were received today that a body of raiders composed of Atabek and Bedouin tribesmen had suffered heavy losses in an attack and dispersion by a force of 40,000 men led by Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz. The notorious raider Faisal Ed Dowish was among those reported killed.

Italians Kill 160 Rebels.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BENGHAZI, Cyrenaica, North Africa, April 7.—Acting on information furnished by Italian aviation forces in Cyrenaica, an Italian column surprised and routed the rebel forces at Wady Faresin. Rebel losses were 160 killed. The Italians captured 100 camels. The Italian losses were fifteen colored soldiers killed and ten wounded.

Four Convicts Escape from Louisiana Penitentiary

Baton Rouge, La., April 7.—Four state convicts who participated in the spectacular prison break last September escaped from the Louisiana penitentiary receiving station near here today by overpowering guards and dashing for freedom.

ASK RED CROSS AID IN WISCONSIN STORM AREA REHABILITATION

St. Paul, Minn., April 7.—(UPI)—County Red Cross units in Wisconsin today appealed to district headquarters at St. Louis to send a field man to take charge of rehabilitation activities in the storm-swept sections of their state.

Losses in several counties in Wisconsin as a result of the terrific wind-storms of Friday night will range from $50,000 to $1,000,000, according to Red Cross estimates.

Col. W. D. Lovell, chief of the Wisconsin National Guard company at Rice Lake has been detailed by the state adjutant general to make a report on the situation to Gov. Walter Kohler.

Adj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh of Minnesota has reported to Gov. Theodore Christianson that there is no need of state militia aid in Minnesota's storm territory. The report was made after an airplane and automobile survey of the district north of the Twin Cities from Brooklyn Center to Taylors Falls.

Gen. Walsh estimated that 200 buildings were destroyed in that area.

MONEY FOR THE SANITARY DISTRICT.

Gov. Emmerson's position on sanitary district bonding legislation is stated unofficially to be as follows: He is friendly to legislation which will temporarily remove the requirement of a referendum on sanitary district borrowing provided that the lifting of the referendum provision is for a limited time and for a limited amount of money to be devoted to specified purposes.

The governor's position we believe to be a sound one. Under the terms of the Supreme court decision in the lake level case, Chicago must continue to build sewage treatment and kindred works. Just how rapidly these works must be completed remains to be decided, but it may be assumed that the pace will be at least as rapid as was maintained in recent years. Chicago may feel the decision is unjust, but it must be obeyed. It cannot be obeyed if the sanitary district may not issue bonds, and there appears to be a widespread notion that the voters of the district, because of its foul political record, will not approve the bonds needed at a referendum. Moreover, no referendum can be held for some months, during which no work could be undertaken, and the stoppage might be interpreted by the court to Chicago's "disadvantage" as an indication of recalcitrance.

A measure now before the legislature proposes to remove the requirement of the referendum for all bond issues the proceeds of which are intended to pay the costs of carrying out the mandate of the court. This measure grants too much. It is, in effect, a blank check upon the taxpayers, which the trustees of the district can fill out in any amount and at any time. Of the nine trustees of the district, only three can be said to have the confidence of the public in any considerable degree, and even these three have yet to make their records. A two-to-one majority of the board is made up of holdover members who were responsible in varying degrees for the whoopee phases of its history. To extend unlimited borrowing power to such a board is to invite waste, extravagance, and graft on a bigger and better scale.

At the same time, the immediate and legitimate requirements of the district must be met. This can be done if the engineers of the district prepare a schedule of the works which must be paid for by the end of 1931. The district could then be empowered to issue bonds for the specified amount without referendum. It would be well if, in addition, the legislature could make some provision which would assure that the money thus borrowed would be spent for the purposes indicated and no others.

In 1931 the legislature will meet again. If meanwhile the voters refuse assent to further borrowings required by the court's decree, the legislature can lift the referendum provision again.

THE BRITISH GENERAL ELECTRIC AND THE WORLD COURT.

Sir Hugo Eustis of the General Electric Company of England will not abandon his program to win American stockholders. A new issue of stock will be offered, if Sir Hugo is successful, exclusively for British consumption, and the American shares, which comprise a majority of the stock, will weather a wave of selling. The London Economist and other British opinion is severely critical of the Hirst plan to trim American property rights in his company.

The action of the British General Electric has shaken British credit in this country and it has created suspicion of British industry. But it has done more. What private capital in Great Britain has done to American interests has been legitimately taken as an illustration of what British diplomacy is prepared to do to the United States if we should join the world court. Morality in international finance is more highly developed than in international politics. British capital has violated a fundamental code of conduct, a primitive financial obligation, the destruction of which prevents further business between nations as it would between individuals. Having demonstrated its ability, unlawfully, to confiscate American property, what assurance have we that Britain would have any higher standards in her diplomatic dealings with us if we should reluctantly enter the world court?

American money was invested in the British General Electric through representations made by the company's American agents. American capital was solicited; it was not forced into the company. As soon as the company had possession of American wealth the rights of ownership and direction of the company which the money bought were arbitrarily suspended. American stockholders first were deprived of voting privilege and now their holdings are to be cheapened. This is the process which may be expected of Britain in any world court associations which she may have with us.

Mr. Root, with the collaboration of British agents, has prepared a plan for getting the United States into the world court. If we go in it will be indirectly at the solicitation of Great Britain. The General Electric's disgraceful violation of American property suggests that American political interests would be humiliated in much the same manner if we should expose ourselves in the same way.

THE GREAT CRISIS IN WASHINGTON.

It appears that Ambassador Carlos G. Davila of Chile must make an important decision in the case of Gann vs. the protocol in Washington. He is entertaining at dinner Thursday the Vice President, Mr. Curtis, who is accompanied by the vice presidential hostess, Mrs. Gann. Mr. Edward Everett Gann, the husband of the hostess, attends, but he expects to be down where the racing is the worst. Where Mrs. Gann will be is the problem confronting Don Carlos. Mr. Curtis insists with vigor that his sister, his official hostess, shall be up where the aristocrats and the strawberries are served first, protocol or no protocol. She is the second lady of the land and shall not go in after the lady of the Haitian minister.

The appeal to the chivalry of Don Carlos is eloquent. Mrs. Gann's demand is for precedence and priority above the ladies of the diplomatic corps, and noblesse oblige requires that he sacrifice his own faction to the claims of the vice presidential establishment.

The historical traditions will sustain him if he sides with the Gann party. He will find authority in the most celebrated instance of social conflict, that conducted by President Andrew Jackson for the proper recognition of Mrs. H. Eaton, wife of the secretary of war, and before her marriage to him the vivacious Peggy O'Neal Timberlake. Mr. Timberlake, a purser in the navy, had cut his throat while in service in the Mediterranean. His friends reported that he had been seized with an attack of melancholy following an overindulgence in intoxicants and there seemed no fair reason to attack any of the responsibility to the former Miss O'Neal, but gossip was unkind.

The British minister, Mr. Vaughan, was particularly useful in helping the President in the chivalric attack upon social unfairness, and he was aided by the Russian minister, an old bachelor. Mr. Huygena, the minister from Holland, was under the control of Mrs. Huygena, who could not at all be managed. Mr. Jackson, the most gallant and outspoken of our Presidents, said he would send Mr. Huygena back to Holland if he could not keep his household property in hand. The diplomatic corps can be very useful in meeting problems of conduct in Washington. It is within the power and privilege of Don Carlos to present Washington with a fait accompli Thursday night.

There remains the case of Mr. Gann and for that also historical precedent might be sought. When William the Prince of Orange was considered as the man in whose name James II. might be forced off the throne he had so grossly abused, the claim of the Netherlander was, of course, in his wife's name. Mary, the daughter of James, might give a valid color of legitimacy in succession in spite of the existence of the newly born prince at Whitehall. William himself was in the remote shadows.

Mary was sounded as to her sentiments. Would she be queen and William her prince consort? Should it be William and Mary, Mary the queen regnant? Should William be regent? William himself was of strong opinion. Regent he would not be. As for prince consort, he had no mind to be a "gentleman usher to his wife." Mary, noble wife, said that if they offered her the crown she would but lay it with her heart at the feet of her lord.

It would seem that the least which could be done for Mr. Gann would be to recognize him as host consort and move him up nearer the radishes and young green onions.

BEHOLD, OR DO YOU? SPRING.

This is without prejudice or preconception of what will be offered the citizenship of these regions even before publication can be had. Two feet of snow may be greeting the milk wagon this morning or icicles may be hanging from the eaves. It is already of record, however, that this springless lake shore has had a spell of spring. It came with all the effect of taking a cork out of a bottle of champagne, if there be any citizens who can now recall what that sound was.

Spring popped. It was as a slow moving picture of six weeks work accomplished in two days. It revealed the strength of the pent up force as recently frost bound in the earth and released by the touch of 80 degrees. At this touch a flush of green spread out. Where there had been snow there were hepatic, blood root, crocus, tulip leaves, peony shoots, the stalks of larkspur and phlox, all the hardy fellows of the garden which usually come in like pioneers in bad Indian country, now bursting forth with confidence and assurance. No doubt they'll catch it later, but meanwhile the citizenship has seen a spring staged about as Morris Gest might do it. It has been a production, not a timid experiment as customary.

Editorial of the Day

THE PROPOSED "FRANKING" REFORM.

[Detroit Free Press.] Postmaster Brown is in for a long difficult uphill struggle if he means to wage a really serious battle to reduce the amount of franked mail carried by his department; but he will be fighting in a good cause.

Even conceding that the government will bear the cost of sending out all mail now franked, whether it is paid for out of postal revenues or out of those of each department, a reform such as Mr. Brown contemplates would be very much worth while. The postmaster general is fully justified in assuming that departments would be considerably more economical with their postal expenditures than they are if they were forced to adopt the method of procedure in vogue in every well conducted private business, and include them in estimates and justify them to the budget bureau. Such a check on outlay would have a direct tendency to create watchfulness in oversight, eliminate waste and inspire frugality. The result might be a considerable public saving.

But a careful separation of postal charges should accomplish more than this. Much of the franking now done by members of congress is a flagrant abuse of the privilege, and is on a moral level with graft. If the cost of the free mailing right enjoyed by senators and representatives were to be set off by the public in dollars and cents, the publicity might produce a change that would save the country literally millions.

CRISIS.

O, put aside affairs of State,
They matter not a bit—
Until we settle, once for all,
Where Mrs. Gann shall sit!

The Farm Relief? Don't be absurd,
Though yokels throw a fit—
They'll have to wait till we decide
Where Mrs. Gann shall sit!

Though commons roar in Mexico,
With strife the country's split—
What's that to us—until we know
Where Mrs. Gann shall sit!

The "Dry" shoot weak women.
Is that our business? "Nuh!"

We can't be bothered till we know
Where Mrs. Gann shall sit!

What matters war or husbandry
Or Poetry or Wit

To a Nation all wrought up about Where Mrs. Gann shall sit!

ARD-EL-KADER.

THE MANCHESTER SQUARE CASE.

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Algernon Somersett was observed sitting in exactly the same attitude in his window in Manchester Square day after day. It was discovered that he had been dead for a fortnight, or more, and that his body was lying in a chair, with his head resting on a large cushion in his forehead, such as might have been used to a large bullet. A large bullet was found in the wall directly back of the chair, and several of the officers from Scotland Yard who visited the house were of the opinion that Sir Algernon had been shot. Constable Higgins, who first investigated the case, and several of the officers from Scotland Yard who visited the house, were of the opinion that Sir Algernon had been shot. The cook and butler at the Somersett house were also found dead. The cook and butler had large holes in the center of the foreheads. Constable Higgins, instead of writing to the Times about it, or questioning the leader of the opposition in Parliament, has been out on his own, taking steps. He takes no more steps than necessary.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

Constable Higgins went over to the Nineveh club in Pall Mall. He had heard from the butler (naturally he heard this from the butler before the laster's unfortunate demise) that Sir Algernon had been a member of the Nineveh club ever since he came down from Oxford. Police Constable Higgins wore his civvies when he called at the Nineveh club because he did not wish to excite alarm and a possible rebuttal.

Constable Higgins, after some argument with the haughty doorman, who was dressed in the uniform of an admiral of the North seas fleet, was permitted to approach the man in the information office of the club. He told the man that he wished to inquire regarding one of the members, Sir Algernon Somersett.

"Is he a member of the Nineveh club?" asked the information clerk.

"A master," replied Constable Higgins, in a dignified manner, "regarding which you should possess as much information as myself."

The information clerk thought this over for some time and then said that the membership of the Nineveh club concerned only the Nineveh club, and was not to be discussed with strangers.

Constable Higgins said that he had called at the club on business of great importance and asked that he be permitted to see the secretary of the club. He waited for over an hour, until the secretary could be found and brought out to him. In an hour more the secretary finally went to the extent of admitting that Sir Algernon was a member of the Nineveh club and that he knew him by sight naturally, as for years he had sat in the large chair in one of the large windows of the club looking down into Pall Mall and Sir Algernon had sat in the next chair.

"He is there now," said the secretary.

"No," said Constable Higgins, "he is not there now."

The secretary did not argue. He could not, he was sure, as he had not particularly noticed Sir Algernon had sat next to him as many afternoons and evenings stretching back through the long years that he had taken it for granted that he was sitting there now.

Constable Higgins suggested that the secretary go back and take a good look at the man in the next chair.

"But I couldn't do that," said the secretary. "I would not like to stare at him. It isn't done in the Nineveh club."

"Get up and speak to him then," said Constable Higgins. The secretary was horrified.

"Good God, man!" he gasped, "how could I do that? We've never been introduced!"

FORMS OF LEAD POISONING.

WHEN a person is suffering from the symptoms of lead poisoning the metal is reaching the blood stream by at least one of three routes—the lungs, the stomach and intestines—and reabsorption of deposited lead from the bones and other tissues. Symptoms are due to lead in solution in the blood stream. Lead stored in the tissues does not cause symptoms as long as it stays in the bones.

The lead which enters by way of the digestive tract is due to dirty hands, the pollution of food and drink, including tobacco and gum. When the danger is from absorption through the digestive tube, the harmful salts, in the order of their toxicity, are carbonates, oxides, sulphates, sulphides, and chromates. If there is any bicarbonate of soda in the fluids anywhere in the tract the less soluble chromatic may be converted into the more soluble and, therefore, more dangerous carbonate.

The forms of lead that are most toxic to man are the lead salts of the lungs, in the order of their toxicity because of solubility, are: Metallic lead, lead oxide, sulphate, and carbonate. If a man is working in lead fumes he is especially endangered when he works with metallic lead, and very little endangered when he works with carbonates. In metallic lead the man is endangered by lead dust on his hands and fingers. In metallic lead he has but slight interest.

LEGISLATURE TO KILL EVERY DRY ACT IN WISCONSIN

Poll Reveals Majority Hed Voice of People.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7.—[Special]—The Wisconsin legislature will obey the mandate of the people, expressed in last week's referendum, to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act and remove the penalty on 2.75 per cent beer. Senator Bernard Gettlemen of Milwaukee will ask for immediate consideration of the repeal bill Tuesday.

A poll of the senate reveals that its members, though dry or undecided, especially are impressed by the wet vote from their respective districts. Incomplete returns indicate only 22 of the 71 counties in the state have voted against repeal, and that by a narrow margin. The wet leanings of the assembly never have been in doubt.

Of the 33 senators in the legislature, 19 have expressed their intention to vote for the repeal, as their constituents demanded; eight have signified their opposition; two refused to comment; two were undecided, and two could not be reached for an opinion.

Those in Wet Territory.

Included among those who are undecided or noncommittal are two whose districts were shown by the referendum to be overwhelmingly wet. Three of those who voiced opposition to the repealer are in decidedly wet territory and may be swayed by the majority.

The following senators declared they would vote for repeal:

James Barker, Antigo; John E. Cashman, Denmark; Bernard Gettlemen, Milwaukee; Walter S. Goodland, Racine; William H. Markham, Horicon; Irving P. McHigan, Milwaukee; Oscar H. Morris, Milwaukee; Otto Mueller, Wausau; Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee; John C. Schuman, Waukesha; Herbert H. Smith, Milwaukee; Merritt F. White, Winneconne; Elmer S. Hall, Green Bay; Anton Miller, Milwaukee; J. F. Neumann, Lodi; Leo Conrad, Sheboygan; Kenosha; Walter J. Rush, Neillsville; Glenn D. Roberts, Madison, and Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee, who sponsored the resolution under which the referendum was authorized.

Will Vote Against Repeal.

Those who declared they would vote against repeal are: Cari B. Casper, Frederick; Walter H. Hunt, River Falls; Charles W. Hutchinson, Mineral Point; V. S. Kappel, Holmen; E. J. Rosette, Fennimore; Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire; Howard Teasdale, Sparta, reform leader of the senate, and Herman J. Severson, Joliet, author of the state prohibition enforcement act.

Dr. Eddie Shaffer, Falls, whose district voted overwhelmingly wet, and Robert Caldwell, Lodi, gave no advance indication of their vote.

Harry B. Daggett, Milwaukee, whose district also was overwhelmingly in favor of repeal, and J. H. Carroll, Glidden, refused to comment.

Dry to Head Voice of People.

Among the surprise votes in the wet column will be that of Senator Shearer, a confirmed dry, who declared he would support the repeal bill because of the two to one wet vote in his district. Senator Goodland, staunch political friend of Gov. Walker,

J. Kohler and the last one who would put him in an embarrassing position since he endorsed the Hoover administration previously voted against the referendum. Senator Severson, a strong administration supporter, declared "The referendum is too delicate to be disregarded."

Senator Severson, author of the dry act, which the voters seek to abolish, said he would vote against repeal regardless of the fact that his district voted wet.

"This district went wet by 5,000 in the 1925 beer referendum, but at the same time I was elected by a majority of 2,000," Senator Severson declared.

Two of the senatorial voters, however, divided on the question, yet neither found themselves on the wet side, it is indicated. Senator Carroll refused to state his position, but he voted for the joint resolution which made the referendum possible.

Will Await Full Return.

Said Senator Caldwell: "If the vote in this district is strongly in favor of repeal, I probably will vote that way.

If the result is close, I will use my own judgment."

(Fifty per cent of the precincts in Senator Caldwell's district showed the referendum.

Senator Teasdale, whose reform movements in the legislature have been the subject of much comment in the state press, declared he would vote against the repeal bill regardless of the vote of his constituents. Complete reports from Senator Teasdale's district are not available, but he said, "I think it's gone dry."

In the referendum of 1925 to memorialize congress for beer, the counties of Juneau, Marquette, Adams and Monroe, all in Teasdale's district, voted wet.

The fight on the repeal bill is expected to open on Tuesday with the reconvening of the legislature following the Easter holidays.

REPARATIONS TO RUN 58 YEARS
UNDER NEW PLAN

Berlin to Pay $450,000,
000 to $525,000,000.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
PARIS, April 7.—The Young commission, which is attempting to review the Dawes reparations plan, has reached a tentative accord in principle regarding the number of annuties, the division of each annual payment into conditional and unconditional portions, the establishment of a superbank, and a scale of deliveries to the allied governments.

The major point remaining unsettled and now under discussion between Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, and the principal of the allied creditors, is the amount of the annual payments over a term of years.
Chairman Owen D. Young, it is stated, will propose a series of payments ranging from $450,000,000 during the first five years to $525,000,000 in later years. The annuities will be divided into two series, one for paying what the allies owe each other and the United States, and the other for reimbursing amounts for reconstruction in the devastated districts, which the allied governments have already expended.

Payments to Run 58 Years.

The first category would run 58 years, the period for the extinction of the allied debts to America.
The other category would run 37 years, during which time the German annuities that would have remained would be reduced to a point at which their former amount spent in rebuilding the damage of the war.
Dr. Schacht is now negotiating primarily with the French, British, Belgian, and Italian delegations, attempting to hammer down the claims of each to the lowest figure. He has already agreed that the principle of Germany's payments will cover what the allies owe Great Britain and the United States.

Super Bank to Handle Deal.
The entire handling of the program, once adopted, will be intrusted to the super peace bank, in which it is planned to center the world's most powerful fiscal institutions under an international corporate trusteeship.
The international bank will also control the world's foreign loans and credit through an agreement with the principal private and state banks that all international transactions shall pass through the peace bank.
Eventually, it is admitted, the American debt will be repaid through the bank direct, from the reparations reserves for the allied accounts.

JOHNSON SEES DRY LAW BUMPER IN WORLD COURT

Little Chance for U. S. in Case Like I'm Alone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service] Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special]—Certain defeat for the United States if the case of the sinking of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone was submitted to the world court for a decision was forecast today by Senator Miriam Johnson (Rep., Calif.), one of the leading members of the delegation sent up by the league of nations.

While not taking any position on the merit of the American case, Senator Johnson pointed out that were the incident submitted to the court, judges from Great Britain, Canada, France and other powers opposed to the American prohibition policy would hand down the decision.

"Even an internationalist could understand what would happen in that case," Senator Johnson said.

Senator Johnson pointed out that were the United States a member the case could be brought into the court by either Great Britain, France or Canada.

All Oppose Policy of Prohibition.

"Unless the United States then put itself in the position of repudiating the court immediately after it had joined the tribunal," Senator Johnson said, "it would find itself before a foreign court, with fourteen foreign judges, all of them doubtless opposing what we have made a national policy, and, in a case involving prohibition, especially if of serious import like the sinking of the I'm Alone, the atmosphere of this foreign court would be so freezing as to chill even the American representatives."

Sen. George Hurst demands separate representation upon the court for the British dominions, as well as for Great Britain herself, and in this demand he has the support of Mr. Root. Only the timid voice of a small nation in Europe is heard in opposition.

Attack Withdrawn Plan.

"If the United States were a part of the court when Great Britain or France or Canada demanded the submission of the I'm Alone case, what would we do? We know Great Britain and France control the league, and that the court is but a part of the league. The embattled editorial exhorters of the league of nations court say, in substance, we must submit the case. We should then be in the position, immediately after joining the court, of at once repudiating it, a rôle, of course, which no self-respecting nation would desire."

Senator Johnson attacked the Hurst provision in the court protocol providing that in case the United States is overruled in a fight to keep the league from asking an advisory opinion on a

BODY OF MISSING GIRL FOUND; GASH IN HEAD, HANDS AND FEET TIED

Terre Haute, Ind., April 7.—(AP)—The body of Edith Mae Dierdorf, her feet and hands wired together and a deep hole in the top of her head, was found today lodged against a log in Musseron creek, two and a fourth miles west of Paxton, Ind.

The disappearance of the 10 year old girl, Terre Haute news girl ten weeks ago today caused a sensation in the vicinity, and hundreds of citizens joined in a search for her. Her body was found today by Niram Slaven, principal of the county school at Pleasantville, Ind., who was in the woods with his wife and four children searching for early spring flowers.

Identification was made tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dierdorf, parents of the slain girl, from a signet ring, the shoes, and the girl's coat.

particular matter, this country can then withdraw.

"The league editors say in effect to us," continued Mr. Johnson, "Join the court but do not submit your controversies to it, an answer that is an affront to common sense."

Ask Report on Juan.

While the Canadian government is handing in its projected protest to the state department tomorrow against the big-handed actions of the coast guard in sinking the I'm Alone, coast guard officials will be investigating another instance, where coast guard guns have aroused the ire of a foreign power. The coast guard tonight asked for a report on the attack made by a coast guard cutter last Friday on the S. S. Juan, a Norwegian fruit ship, an hour after it passed through the capes into Chesapeake bay. According to the captain of the vessel, the guardmen halted the ship with guns and then boarded it. Finding no liquor, it was freed.

POLICE SAVE DRY AGENTS STONED BY CROWD OF 500

Bethlehem, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—State police today rescued six Philadelphia prohibition agents from a rock throwing crowd numbering more than 500. The trouble followed a raid on a hotel at Reading, near here.

One of the agents, Austin McGarvey, has been arrested by Leonard Martocci, a Roseto special policeman, on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated, but subsequently was released after examination by a doctor, who declared him sober. Martocci himself then was arrested for interference with a federal officer.

The disturbance occurred when McGarvey returned from Bangor, where he had been cleared of the intoxication charge. The crowd showered the men with stones and drove them to cover. The agents telephoned state police at Reading, who sent aid.

TEXTILE STRIKE SPREADS AT BECK OF COMMUNISTS

Walkout Voted at New Mill; Pickets Ready.

Charlotte, N. C., April 7.—(Special)

Operatives of the Chadwick-Hawkins mill at Pineville, near Charlotte, have voted to walk out tomorrow and pickets will be placed about the plant to prevent any who might attempt to go to work. This brings the strike drive, directed by communist agitators to unionize the south's textile workers more nearly into the heart of the center of the industry.

The trouble began Monday with a walkout of 1,100 operatives at the Loray plant of the Marvin-Jencks company at Gastonia, and according to Fred Erwin Basel, of the National Textile Workers' union, and his co-worker, George Pershing of the communist party, will be extended until within the week fifteen other mills in Gaston and Mecklenburg counties will face strikes. Five thousand workers already are out.

It is expected that the High Shoals plant of the Marvin-Jencks company twelve miles from Gastonia, will have a walkout by tomorrow night. According to Basel, demands will be presented tomorrow.

Well Known as Agitators.

Most of those in charge of the strike are openly communists. George Pershing, who claims to be a son of George Pershing, enlisted in the army at Fort Meade in 1914 and was dishonorably discharged in 1925 after conviction on charges of house breaking. He was charged with feloniously and burglariously entering a dwelling. He served two years at Alcatraz, an army prison at San Francisco.

In New York Pershing was held by a policeman for parading in front of the British consulate with parades of red banners, "Down with British Imperialism." He joined the Young Workers League of America, affiliated with the workers' party.

Miss Ella Dawson, woman agitator and co-director of the Loray strike, in her soap box harangues in which she stir the mill women to the highest pitch of excitement, admits that she is out of prison on probation and must report each month to federal authorities in New Bedford, Mass.

Fred Erwin Basel, directing the strike as secretary of the United Committee of the Young Men's Communist Party, participated in strike at Lawrence, Mass., New Bedford, Mass., and other points.

The strikers demand a 6 day week of 40 hours, a minimum of $25 and a reduction in rent of company houses.

Federal and state labor officials refuse to recognize Basel and Pershing or hold conference with them looking to a settlement.

Promises to Prosecute Kidnappers.

Elizabethtown, Tenn., April 7.—(AP)—The influence of the American Federation of Labor and all its allied bodies was pledged today by William Green, president of the federation, to the prosecution of alleged kidnappers of two labor organizers who charge several Elizabethtown citizens with forcing them to leave town.

MOTOR BANDITS GIVE LONDON 2 SUNDAY THRILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service] LONDON, April 7.—London was unable today to point the finger of scorn at American banditry, for this Sunday morning the calm Piccadilly region was twice disturbed by the pursuit of motor car bandits carried out in true American fashion.

The first chase began when a policeman interrupted four men in the act of robbing a Mayfair tobacconist establishment. The robbers jumped in a big touring car while the constable commanded a taxi cab for the chase.

The second race was between bandits who had entered a millinery shop and a flying squadron from Scotland Yard which had been summoned by wireless by the same system that was sponsored by The Taisuna in Chicago. Both groups of robbers escaped.

IMPROVED TANKS FORCE CHANGES IN ARMY TACTICS

Expert Urges Separate Armored Branch.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.—Tactics for the employment of armored fighting vehicles on the battlefield must be revised as a result of the enormous advances made since the war in the construction of tanks and other cross-country war machines, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. G. G. Williams, army chief of ordnance.

Discussing what he termed the new era of the armored fighting vehicle, he asserted today that such great improvements have been made in the production of all kinds of armored vehicles since the war that it is now practicable to build up a small separate armored striking force within the army that can be entirely divorced from the infantry and which will be capable of acting independently on the battlefield.

Light tanks, the ordnance chief said, have improved 400 per cent in the last ten years. They are faster, have greater fire power, and will stand up under rough usage for long distances.

Substitution wherever possible of modern tanks and armor protected vehicles for transporting infantrymen would result in a great saving of human life, Gen. Williams asserted. He advocated the use of armor protection for the advancing soldier wherever the use of a cross-country vehicle is possible. In his opinion, such armor protection will be needed in the next war to make possible the advance of the soldier against machine gun emplacement and the greater fire power which will feature future warfare.

How They Would Operate.

As future machine warfare is visualized by Gen. Williams, infantry would attack in sections where some natural protection was afforded by the landscape. Armored vehicles, operating together as a single independent striking force, would be utilized on the best available terrain in the battle area.

In the armored striking force would be incorporated light tanks capable of traveling twenty miles an hour cross country, vehicles protected with armor for moving infantrymen and machine gun squads across fire-swept zones, self-propelled artillery to support the tanks, ammunition carriers, and numerous other vehicles.

In attack the light tanks would be rushed at high speed at the enemy objectives. As they rode rough shot over enemy machine gun nests the self-propelled field guns would furnish artillery support. As soon as the immediate enemy resistance was overcome the armored protected transports, each carrying a machine gun armed with ample ammunition, would be rushed up for the purpose of occupying the objective gained and holding it against counter attack.

Line Quickly Occupied.

"By the use of a large number of these little transports, a line may be quickly occupied," Gen. Williams said. "By a strong force of machine guns, the crews for which have been carried forward behind armor plate. The battle losses in men will thus be greatly reduced. The infantry carrier will operate at speeds as great as that possessed by the light tanks, and will be armored to resist machine gun and rifle fire."

The ordnance chief did not predict that all warfare would be revolutionized by the entrance of improved armored fighting machines, but he emphasized that changes in the tactics of warfare must be made to insure correct incorporation of the machine force within the modern army. He pointed out that the American army did not develop an armored force, although the machines could be constructed within a short time were funds available. He advocated the immediate construction of a well organized machine unit in the interests of national defense.

Difference in Fire Power.

Maj. Levin H. Campbell Jr. of the ordnance department pointed out in an article prepared for a service publication that it has been computed that the fire power of a light tank company of 112 men is seven times greater than an infantry company of 356 men, "as expressed in pounds of metal thrown per minute."

"To this figure must be added," he continued, "the great destruction of morale that an armored vehicle rushing at high speed will produce on enemy troops. No longer will the machine gun be able to hold up the advance of the tank will be impervious to its fire."

'FIRE' PROFESSOR, LAY OFF ANOTHER FOR SEX QUIZZING

Missouri U. Curators Up- hold Executive Board.

Columbia, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—The board of curators of the University of Missouri today upheld dismissal of Dr. Harmon O. De Graff, assistant professor of sociology, for his part in the circulation of a sex questionnaire among students and granted reinstatement to Dr. Max F. Meyer, suspended professor of psychology.

Dr. Meyer, however, was ordered suspended for one year, beginning to serve. De Graff's permanent dis-charge takes effect tomorrow.

The board of nine members which deliberated nearly two days in a "rush" of the faculty members, did not mention G. H. Mowrer, student assistant instructor in psychology, who was ordered dismissed by the executive board of curators March 20, along with Dr. Meyer and Dr. De Graff.

Row Reached Legislate.

The three faculty members had sanctioned circulation of a questionnaire among 1,000 men and women students asking them intimate questions regarding sex and marriage. The row that followed stirred the entire state and even reached the floor of the state legislature.

Mowrer is ousted permanently from the faculty as the full board approved the executive board's action except as it affected Dr. Meyer.

The vote was unanimous. Judge James E. Goodrich, president of the board, said the conclusion was reached as a compromise on conflicting views. A prepared statement issued said Dr. Meyer was to be reinstated because "of his long service to the university and our conviction that the offense for which he was suspended will not be repeated."

Held, Breach of Decency.

The findings were that the "promise of circulation of the questionnaire," by every tenet of sound sense and common decency should have been suppressed.

and that the investigation done "by its very nature tends to agitate the condition which it is alleged to correct."

LABOR TEMPLE IS REDS' G. H. Q. IN WESTERN CANADA

Former Solon Makes Expose.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WINNIPEG, Man., April 7.—Charged that the Ukrainian Labor temple in Winnipeg was the distributing center for soviet propaganda for the whole of the Dominion of Canada, and that children in schools all over the country were being taught anti-British subjects, were made at a public meeting here recently by members of the Fundamental Association of Church Laity, which sponsored the assembly. Two thousand persons attended.

D. A. Ross, ex-member of the Manitoba legislature, who has spent considerable time investigating communist propaganda in Canada, charged that in certain schools teachers, working for Communists, taught children anti-British ideas. He read from a hymn book, quoting one of the selections which was for the sole purpose of inciting the youth to revolutionary methods, not by peaceful means, but by bloodshed. These things were being taught to children all over the dominion, he said, and he made the flat charge that the Ukrainian Labor temple here was the center of activity for Communists for the entire dominion.

Financed by Russia.

The Ukrainian labor hall, in the north end of this city, Ross declared, "is financed by the Russian government and their agents are being trained before sent out to poison the minds of the children." Ross produced a placard which he said was issued last January when communist agents in Winnipeg were engaged in a recruiting drive and which called for recruits to the Red Army "to prepare the way and be ready when the moment comes to strike."

Following his talk, the meeting adopted a resolution calling on the government to prevent any school building from being used for "communistic purposes and to order and by strict supervision a series of lectures on practical civics, spread over the higher elementary and junior grades, to be given in all schools, both public and private, and that all teachers be required to pass an examination on this subject and also that all teachers close their daily classes with the Lord's prayer and the singing of God Save the King."

Should Assert Selves.

In supporting the resolution, the Rev. A. MacIntosh, chairman of the meeting, stated that there were those in Canada who were endeavoring to see that the old song, "Britannia Rule Waves," should not be sung in Canada, but that Britain's rule should be withdrawn in Canada. Every effort was being made by the Communists to prevent Canada from remaining British, he said. He considered it was time that Canadians, who were Britishers, were asserting themselves to the end that such propaganda be stamped out.

Hindenburg Seriously Ill for a Week; Grows Better

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, April 7.—President Paul von Hindenburg has been seriously ill for a week, it was officially admitted today, but is now better. The communiqué says: "The president during the last week suffered an attack of influenza, leading to serious stomach trouble. It was at the president's own wish that the public was not informed of his illness. It can now be said that the president has overcome his sickness and is able yesterday to receive some official visitors. His physicians order him to still keep to some time as much as possible."

LINCOLN PARK OFFICIALS DENY CHARGE IN SUIT

The present and the past president of the Lincoln park board yesterday replied to a taxpayers' suit on which a temporary injunction will be sought today to enjoin further work on the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company's $3,500,000 breakwater contract, part of the project that is extending the park northward.

The suit, filed by the Chicago Urban League, alleges that the contracts were let, one in 1924 and another in 1927, in pursuance of a conspiracy among the park commissioners, the dredging company and the Pitts-Simons & Connell Dredge and Dock company, an unsuccessful bidder.

David H. Jackson, ex-president of the park board, said the contracts were advertised as required by law and, in addition, each prospective bidder got a special notice. Eugene R. Pike, who took office as president about fifteen months ago, said his attorneys had reviewed all pending contracts and had found them legal.

BUILDERS AWAKE TO DEMAND FOR AMPHIBIAN PLANE

Dozen New Flying Boats at Aircraft Show.

BY ROBERT WOOD.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—[Special.]—Aircraft builders and designers are awakening to the demand for speedy flying boats capable of utilizing the natural landing areas provided in America's thousands of miles of ocean front and many inland rivers and lakes.

A decided trend toward this type of craft is apparent in the models exhibited at the all-American aircraft show which opened here yesterday.

Among the 197 airplane entries are more than a dozen new flying boats, seaplanes and amphibians. Many manufacturers, whose products, heretofore, have been limited to land planes, now are building ships with inflatable landing gear. Lockheed, Boeing, Vought, Hamilton and others are producing pontoons with which their planes may be readily converted into water craft.

Four Passenger Amphibian. Airway operators, too, are planning a wider usage of flying boats in carrying passengers and mail between water front cities. The Thompson Aeronautical corporation today announced the purchase of the first of the new Keystone-Loening amphibians, a single motorized four passenger cabin plane, for use in a new commercial line connecting a number of great lakes to be announced soon by the Stout air services, which plan to operate the line in conjunction with the Detroit-Cleveland Navigation company.

Extensive use of the amphibian is now made by the Pan-American Airways, which fly passengers and mail in Sikorsky planes from Miami, Cuba, and Venezuela.

President of one of the flying boats in Chicago and New York awaits the development of water front terminals.

Summer Resort Travel.

The exposition also is exhibiting a number of smaller flying boats for use in summer resort travel, transporting city dwellers to their favorite spots on lakes, rivers, or at the sea side, and for commercial use in opening sparsely settled regions such as northern Canada, where airports are scarce but lakes are numerous.

In this class are the Boeing and Fokker single motorized flying yachts, the Loening amphibian, the new seaplane, the roto, but open planes and the pontoon equipped Lockheed Vega, Vought corsair, Hamilton metal plane, and the American made British planes, the Bluebird and the Avro Avian.

Purchase of controlling interest in the Kreider-Reisner Aircraft company of Hagerstown, Md., by the Fairchild Aviation corporation of Farmingdale, L. I., was announced today at the air show by Fairchild officials.

The Fairchild company is considered the manufacturing nucleus of the Aviation corporation, the recently formed $200,000,000 aeronautical holding company.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you will know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised as they are, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums... the dentifrice designed to firm gums and keep them sound and healthy, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

LITTLE DRAMAS IN THE LIFE OF A GREAT NEWSPAPER SYSTEM

Printed for Scripps-Howard Newspapers by William C. Hoagie

Who's broadcasting tonight? Is the Public entitled to know?

The Scripps-Howard organization recently acquired a new paper in a metropolitan center. Neither this paper nor any local paper printed complete radio programs. The names of all business sponsors were omitted. In fact, millions of radio listeners were groping in the dark for information about their daily programs.

Immediately, the new Scripps-Howard editor cut through this conservatism with a slashing policy of printing all these details. And a roar of protest went up from members of the old staff; "You're taking money out of the business office," . . . "You're giving free space to advertisers," . . . "You're loaning our columns to fatten a rival medium."

But the wave of popularity that instantly followed this new departure convinced even the old stand-patters in the organization of the justice, and value, of the editor's viewpoint . . . For the radio program has plainly become news. And it is fully entitled to its place as part of the editorial content of the SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers.

SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers are continually assaulted by press agents and business houses eager for free publicity. Most of this is not news, and is rejected. Sometimes these items are of genuine public interest, and are printed.

But regardless of its sponsor, nothing is printed unless it is considered authentic news. The convenience and welfare of the reader determine what shall appear. No pressure that can be brought to bear can make a SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspaper pad its columns. And no amount of protest from whatever source can keep legitimate news from its rightful place in its pages.

SOX DEFEAT WICHITA FALLS; CUBS WIN, 12-3

HOSE BATTERS GET RANGE ON ROOKIE PITCHER

Triumph, 8-4; Lyons
Goes Six Innings.

By IRVING VAUGHAN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Wichita Falls, Tex., April 7.—Ted Lyons went to work this afternoon with the idea of pitching nine innings. His plans went slightly awry. After six rounds he decided to be merciful, so he went home. His mates, however, enjoyed a lot of hitting, so the White Sox swept the three game series with the Spudders by winning the final, 8 to 4.

As long as Lyons was in there the hitting of the Spudders was light, but so was the Sox. The latter deficiency was caused by George Payne, another of the Sox's rookies. The major leaguers picked their one time body for only two runs in five rounds, which was as far as he went. Lyons allowed only one tally in six chapters, but after this many things happened.

Welland Still Is Wild.

By this belated clouting the Sox avoided four runs, but the total wasn't pleasing to Ross Blackburne. Ten of the blows were collected against Taber, a young southpaw. Blackburne would have been far better satisfied if his hirings had displayed this same activity against Payne, who knows things about pitching that Taber still must learn. Blackburne had another disappointment in Bob Welland, who was asked to pitch after Lyons had concluded his appearance. The large southpaw is renowned for his lack of control and has been hurling almost daily with the idea that steady work might overcome his difficulty. No improvement was noted this afternoon. He was good against one batter and no good against the next. Finally he got himself into such a pickle that it was necessary to yank him with the sacks loaded and none gone in the ninth. Welland still is wild.

Taber Is Easy Mark.

The Sox gathered a pair of runs in the fifth on an error and two hits. Welland survived on the boot. Ruth made a single, and Metzler shovied home with a triple to right center. Then Taber was brought in for the sixth. As a greeting the Sox delivered three singles, but nobody scored. In the seventh, however, they made amends and scored two runs. Metzler singled and Reynolds did the same. Crouse had drawn paws. As Taber had the mark of a good thing, the Sox bore down and made more some more in the eighth. Redfern walked and stole second. A hit by Crouse drove him home. As a parting shot three more followed in the ninth on a double by Karp, a pass to Reynolds, a double by Hunsfeld, and a single by Watwood.

When the Spudders went into their half of the ninth, they possessed only two runs, one of Lyons on three. Welland on the fifth, and the mark of a good thing. Then they laid the sacks on a single and two bases. McKain was summoned. He set the first batter on a forecourt and then walked a couple on his own behalf but the next two were easy outs. Blackerby and Moore Dashed.

The Sox started back to Dallas to fight for one game there tomorrow. Among those waiting the arrival is Art Shires, the recently banished first batter. He has sent word he will ask to be taken north with the squad. Blackburne has not indicated whether he will grant the request, but it will depend partly on Shires' physical condition. The manner in which Clancy has been beating the ball for the last two probably has convinced Shires he had better get back on the team.

A couple of the rookies will be unloading in the morning. Outfielder Blackerby is to go back to the Waco club and Randy Moore, also a fielder, will join the Dallas club.

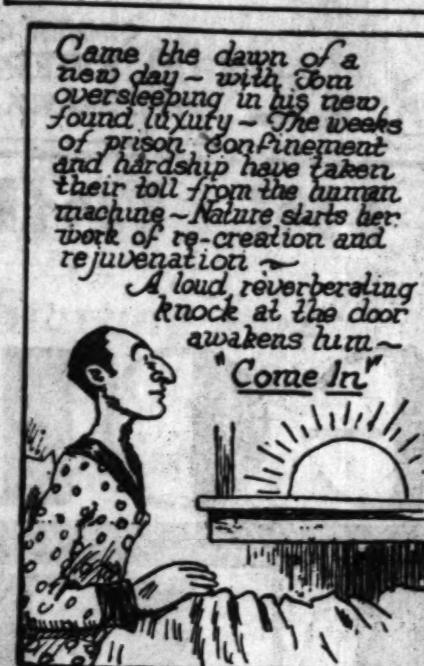

HER RIVALS FALL,
SO CHICAGO GIRL
SKATES TO TITLE

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—(UPI)—Faith Shires of Chicago registered the greatest upset ever scored in a North American speed skating championship by adding the senior women's title at Olympia here tonight. Victory in the mile race, won when Mrs. Leila Brooks-Potter of Toronto fell in the final lap and tripped Elias Muller of New York, threw the title to the Chicago girl.

Loughran-Walker Bout

Los Angeles, April 7.—(UPI)—The illustrated Daily News said tonight in its early Monday morning edition that Harry Agius, the boxing promoter, has abandoned plans for a 45 round light heavyweight title bout between Tommy Loughran, the champion, and Mickey Walker, in Juanita on May 31.

WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE AND WHY IS AN AMATEUR?

Brundage Asks A. A. U.
Groups in Questionnaire.

By WALTER ECKERSALL.
Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U. and one of the greatest all around athletes in American history, is trying to bring about a better understanding of amateur athletics. This is shown by a questionnaire which he has sent to every organization which is a member of the national body.

Before going into detail regarding pointed questions, President Brundage outlined the purposes of the National A. A. U. as follows:

1. To interest the youth of our country in amateur sports.

2. So that facilities are provided so that every boy and girl will have an opportunity to participate in amateur sports and games.

3. To promulgate a code of rules and regulations so that all may compete on equal basis.

4. To teach victory itself is less important than the more or less intangible mental, moral, and social benefits that accrue from participation in wholesome amateur sports; to bring about a general realization that the physical benefits from sports and games are as nothing compared to the character building that follows it good sportsmanship prevails.

Brundage has been connected with amateur athletics in this country for fifteen years as a contestant and official. He has served as referee of the University of Illinois relay carnival for years and he held the same position at Boston last summer when the final tryouts for the American Olympic team were held. For years he was prominent in Western Conference track and field circles, chairman of the Big Ten and greater manning committee. He has been an official in nearly every meet of importance for the last ten years.

The Austrian-Hebrew team, competing for the first time as a unit in the annual competition of the United States Football association, had turned back the western champions by a 2 to 0 score at St. Louis a week ago. Thus he was prominent in Western Conference track and field circles, chairman of the Big Ten and greater manning committee. He has been an official in nearly every meet of importance for the last ten years.

The large crowd ever to witness a national final, 22,000, jammed Dexter Park in Brooklyn to see today's games. The $2,000 National Challenge cup, awarded by Sir Thomas Dewar, and emblematic of the championship, was presented Dr. Max Krause, head of the Hakoah club, by Lieut. Col. G. Randolph Manning, first president of the U. S. F. A.

At half time the Hakoahs led, 1 to 0, through Erno Schwartz's goal, scored after 22 minutes. After the return of Max Grunewald made the second counter and then Capt. Morris Haesel drove in the third tally mid in the second period.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 7.—Today's game here between the New York Yankees and the Oklahoma City Western league team was called in the eighth inning when several thousand admirers rushed Babe Ruth and defied efforts of officers and umpires to clear the field.

The score at that time stood 13 to 5 for the world champions. Ruth failed to hit more than a single in his two day stay here and was struck out today by an Oklahoma City pitcher.

THE GUMPS—FAME AND FORTUNE

University of Chicago Will Continue Prep Cage Meets

University of Chicago will continue the national interscholastic basketball tournaments. This decision was announced yesterday by Athletic Director Stagg, who inaugurated the prep meet eleven years ago.

Chicago, in continuing the annual classic, will do despite the announced opposition of certain state associations which have maintained that the players are kept away from their studies too long and that the strain of competition, added to that of the state tournaments, is too great.

WILL Drive to Texas.

Many teams which competed last week in the eleventh tourney left the city yesterday. Athens, the champion, will be the last to leave. The Texans drive all the way to the meet in two new automobiles and the party of nine players and Coach Jimmy Kitts are not anxious to resume the later on University of Chicago teams.

Stagg also emphasized the strict control and cooperation between the university and state interscholastic associations.

LONDON, April 7.—It was definitely decided today by Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago that Reigh Count, American turf star, will run again next Saturday for the Newberry cup. He will be withdrawn from the City and Suburban run April 24.

Newspaper comment on Reigh

Count continues unabated, the general opinion being that he has not class enough to win the Ascot gold cup, but might take the Royal Hunt cup or the Steward's cup. Turf critics are awaiting anxiously his next showing.

An expert suggested today that one of the reasons for Reigh Count's comparatively poor showing in the Lingfield handicap was because the race was run downhill. It is noted that the horse even ran in a downhill race in America.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen of Des Moines, Ia., rounded out their 2,855 series with a 1,075 mark but fell down in the first two games, rolling out $32 and $45 in the first and second respectively.

MOON MULLINS—MOON GETS OFF ON THE WRONG TRACK

Starting Jinx Faces Smith in British Open

New York, April 7.—[Special]—Regardless of his sensational performances at home, the odds will be all against Horton Smith in the British open golf championship at Muirfield early in May. The Joplin ghost of the links, even should he overcome the handicaps of altered playing conditions, will be up against the Jinx that has thrown American contenders for repeated losses in their first attempts to gain British honors.

Smith will have a full battalion of compatriots to help make him feel at home. At the same time they can give him the full details on how difficult it is to gain a foothold on British links.

Walter Hagen barely qualified the first time he entered the British open in 1920 and finally wound up in 55th position. Bobby Jones got into so many difficulties in his first crack at the British crown in 1921 that he tore up his card. Gene Sarazen failed to qualify in his first bid for British honors. Bill Melhorn was eighth in his first venture in 1926.

But the hard luck champion of all the contenders from the United States is another member of the team club—McDonald Smith. The Scott stylist, after being third in 1923 and 1924, had the British card in his pocket starting the final round in 1925, but lost control as he was beset by a huge and unruly gallery, taking a disastrous 82 and finishing fourth, three strokes behind John Barnes.

FARRELL, SARAZEN WIN.

Garden City, L. I., April 7.—[Special]—In a final match before sailing Wednesday for England with the other members of the Ryder cup team, Johnny Farrell, national open champion, and Gene Sarazen today defeated Leo Diegel, P. G. A. titleholder, and Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., sensation, by 2 up over the Cherry Valley club links.

The affair, arranged as an exhibition benefit for the Ryder cup fund, also was the means of officially introducing the latest golfing notable, 20 years old Smith, to New York golfers.

Study of Birds Opens Avenue to Mysteries

BY BOB BECKER.

Outdoor fans who like thrilling mystery stories will find them at this time of the year if they turn to the tale the migrating birds are writing in the sky during April and May. Many features of migration, although studied by ornithologists for more than 25 years, still are shrouded in mystery.

Scientists have learned many interesting things about some of the birds appearing in your yard to nest each spring, but there are many unknown gaps in daily record of our feathered friends who nest far north, fly thousands of miles each fall, and then reappear the first time.

Walter Hagen barely qualified the first time he entered the British open in 1920 and finally wound up in 55th position. Bobby Jones got into so many difficulties in his first crack at the British crown in 1921 that he tore up his card. Gene Sarazen failed to qualify in his first bid for British honors. BADGER MEET FAILS TO DRAW FANS' INTEREST

Madison, Wis., April 7.—[Special]

—The Wisconsin basketball season officially closed today with departure of the Waunau High school squad with its championship trophy. Waunau defeated Keweenaw, 22-17, in the state finals last night.

Attendance at the tournament was disappointing. At no time was the University of Wisconsin gymnasium filled to its capacity of 2,300. Paul F. Neverman, secretary of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, said that financially the tourney fell short of expectations.

Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed by the fans over the class of basketball displayed in this year's tournament. Only six of the sixteen competing teams showed anything like championship ability.

Strangler Lewis to Meet Gardini Here April 16

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling title holder, has accepted Promoter Krone's terms for a match with Renato Gardini, Italian star, at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium April 16. The match will be to a finish, best two in three falls, or a time limit of two hours, under the rules of the Illinois athletic commission.

In the case of the nighthawk and the chimney swift [both day travelers] we find a policy of "eat on the wing." Do these birds catch their meals of insects while flying? This is a mystery that advance but a few miles each day when they move north.

The distances some birds travel irrespective of speed is nothing less than amazing, and the way they can speed up their daily flights at times also is surprising. For example, take the nighthawk, a familiar sky figure during the summer. This species negotiates 7,000 miles yearly because these birds will nest as far north as the Yukon and winter down in Argentina.

John Salo, Passaic, N. J. policeman, had his lead by finishing second in today's lap in 8 hours 27 minutes and 45 seconds.

BREWERS RETURN BARNES.

Chicago, April 7.—[Special]—One up on Butler as the result of yesterday's 3 to 2 victory in thirteen innings, Purdue's baseball team will resume against the Bulldogs here tomorrow afternoon in an effort to clinch the series honors. It is likely that Eb Carmay, veteran submarine hero, will draw the starting assignment tomorrow.

Purdue's victory yesterday gave the Bollermakers three triumphs in four games last week.

TIME MONEY JUMPS AS CALL RATE DECLINES

Credit Competition Becomes Keener.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, April 7.—Not much in the way of definite judgment of the future can be derived from last week's markets. Call money rates came down from 30 per cent to 6 but time money, the traditional measure of actual underlying conditions, went to 8 per cent, a rate not touched for loans on mixed collateral even in 1920.

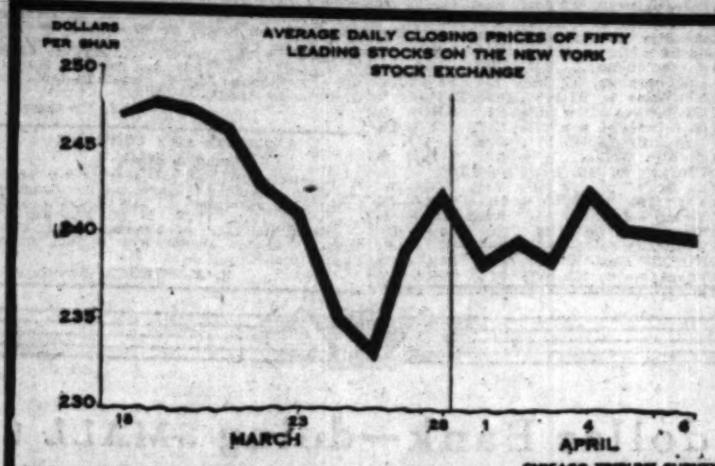

The stock exchange declined and recovered on alternate days, getting precisely nowhere. Reserve bank rates were not advanced, but it was plainly intimated by the board that they would be raised, perhaps progressively, if the stock market were to resume its clutching at the country's credit. The process has not resumed and, week by week, the weekly reports of brokers' loans showed the pace of reduction to be slackening rapidly, and the voice of the Wall street "pools" began to be heard from their cyclone cellars, assuring the public of a "new bull market coming."

Public Holds Aloof.

The speculating public evidently held aloof, however, as was proved by the decrease of one-half in daily stock exchange transactions as compared with the recent average. It can hardly be said that the public, the Wall street itself found enlightenment either in the course of the markets or in the successive "statements" by conspicuous individuals, regarding the theory of normal conditions in the use of credit.

Along with that wholly unavoidable conclusion comes the further fact that even when the fury of stock speculation has been arrested the money situation is not relieved. The stock exchange has an hour of happiness when the call money rate, after reaching 20 per cent, drops back to 6. It does not seem to be aware that even in 1920, when the acuteness of the strain on credit was denied by nobody, a 6 per cent call loan rate was nevertheless touched momentarily in thirty-three out of the year's fifty-two weeks.

ASKS CONGRESS INQUIRY ON U.S. RESERVE BOARD

Recent Market Policies Are Attacked.

BY O. A. MATHER.

A congressional investigation into the policies of the Federal Reserve board to check stock market speculation will be demanded by Representative Frank R. Reid of Illinois. He announced last night that he will offer a resolution when the special session of congress convenes next week calling for a committee to make a thorough inquiry and report its findings to the house.

The present action of the federal reserve board may be as unwise as was the drastic deflation policy adopted by it in 1920 and which caused the depression of 1921, Mr. Reid said.

"It is possible that the present danger that they may produce the disastrous result of a lack of confidence in the soundness and stability of the industrial and commercial structure of the nation to such an extent that no one can foretell what may happen.

Says Board Exceeds Authority.

"The federal reserve system was created to provide this service with elastic currency and credit. It was not intended to act as the regulator of industry, commerce, finance, or speculation. The board should limit itself to its legitimate and proper functions as outlined by congress—namely: the regulating of its own reserves and those of the member banks in this country. Congress has never conferred on the federal reserve board the right to regulate and control the use which American citizens make of their money and credit and the board is assuming these functions without authority of law."

"The attitude of the federal reserve system ought to be changed. If this governmental institution can by its policy force the rate of call money to rise as high as 20 per cent it can force it to rise to 100 per cent or even higher.

On March 19, when the rate rose to 20 per cent, the prices of wheat, corn, and other grains on the Chicago

Board of Trade broke badly. Millions of dollars' worth in crops were wiped out in a few minutes.

"An investigation of the present policy of the federal reserve board should

200 MILLION FLYING COMBINE TAKES OVER FAIRCHILD INTERESTS

New York, April 7.—(UPI)—Acquisition of control of the Fairchild corporation and its several subsidiaries by the Aviation corporation recently formed $200,000,000 holding and development company was announced today by Graham B. Groverton, president of Aviation corporation.

He explained that the Aviation corporation obtained a majority interest in the Fairchild group through an exchange of stock along the same lines by which the company recently gained control of the Universal Aviation corporation.

show whether the board is committed to a program of deflation in security prices. The board does not know its present experience what a program of deflation in 1920 meant and what its disastrous effects were on the farmer particularly and business in general."

The resolution which Mr. Reid will will ask detailed information on a number of questions dealing with the general credit situation and the condition of the federal reserve system.

Some of these questions follow:

Was the federal reserve board in formulating its policy unduly influenced by economic conditions abroad or the neglect of considering economic conditions in the United States?

Questions About Loans.

The different kinds of loans including in the total volume of loans to businesses which is most public evident Thursday afternoon? Are loans for domestic corporations' financing to pay off debts to banks included? Are loans for long term investment included?

Are loans for long term speculation included? Are loans for foreign financing and for unsold bond issues included?

Has there been a pronounced change in the method of corporate financing from the borrowing from banks on commercial paper to the sale of new issues of common stock in the stock markets?

There also are a number of questions intended to establish the strong reserve position of the system, and then this final query:

"Would not affirmative answers to all of the foregoing questions prove that there is no stringency of credit really existing, but that an artificial and wholly unjustified stringency, caused by a fear of deflation, has been brought about arbitrarily by the federal reserve board in trying to force the policy it has formulated?"

College Output Excessive, Industrial Leader Believes

BY SCRUTATOR.

Every now and then appears a new advocate of a rather old theory that this country is training too many men for white collar jobs and not enough for mechanical specialization.

A late viewer with some alarm is Magnus W. Alexander, president of the national industrial conference board. In a public speech he declared last week:

"During recent years college at-tenance has increased approximately five times faster than the population.

The Fairchild corporation, through its subsidiaries, manufactures airplanes, aerial cameras, airplane engines, and motor boats and does an extensive business in aerial surveys. Sherman M. Fairchild, head of the group, said the change in control will not affect the present management.

THE MEDBURY FORT MURDER
By GEORGE LIMNELLUS

SYNOPSIS

Major Hugh Prece of the Royal Army Medical corps has just been transferred from Fort Medbury, which is not far from London. He is about to leave his office one day to take his wife and children for a ride when Lieut. Lepean is announced and he has to stay and examine him. The Lieutenant is suffering from a mild disorder and the major prescribes for him. After the young officer leaves, Major Prece remembers that he has seen him before under embarrassing circumstances. The visit puts the major in a remiss mood. He recalls his first love affair with Prunella Lake, an actress on the London stage, then his being sent to West Africa and his unhappiness at parting from his wife. She afterwards marries Tremayne Bonan. Prece marries Claire Gresham, sister of one of his West African messmates.

A few years later Prunella and Hugh meet at Swindon, where they spend the night together. Prece remembers seeing Lieut. Lepean in the hotel corridor as he leaves the room the morning after.

A few days after Lieut. Lepean's professional call on Major Prece, the younger officer invites the older one into his room for a nightcap and tells him he is aware of his affair with Claire. He has an idea to kill her but refrains. He threatens to tell Major Prece about him, at which Lepean laughs. As Prece leaves Lieut. Lepean asks him to come into his room. He tells Prece that he has lost heavily at cards in London and asks him to come into his room. He asks Prece that he must get rid of Lepean. The next morning Lieut. Lepean is found dead in bed. Capt. Wapse, in charge of the fort, notifies the police. The local police sergeant calls in Scotland Yard and Detective Inspector Paton is put in charge of the investigation.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

DUTY IS DUTY.

It would be gratifying to record that Detective Inspector Paton put away the temptation of acceding to Lady Ronan's implied bargain without a second's hesitation, but in point of actual fact it must be admitted that he did permit his imagination to toy with the seductive possibilities which her words, not more than her words—her actions—had conjured up. Then, fatally for Prece, he remembered her origin. She was not a genuine aristocrat. He might have married just such another as Prunella Lake himself. No! With hardly the slightest twinge of regret he put the temptation from him. It was, in a sense, a triumph for the moral value of British nobility.

"Sorry, Lady Ronan. Duty's duty." He got stiffly out of the car. She was not the sort of woman he thought her, almost with look of despair, as of a gambler who has lost his last throw.

"Are you going to make inquiries at the Ladies' Parthenon?" she asked. What it was that prompted him he did not know; perhaps a certain unwilling admiration for her gameness; perhaps a sporting sense that it was only fair to give her a warning.

"No," he replied. "At Swindon."

"But these old fashioned locks always make a noise when they are turned."

He caught a last glimpse of her, crouched low behind the rakish steering wheel, her mouth drawn to a thin, hard line as the car swished past.

Dear Sir [wrote Nancy Beasley from her father's cottage in Mawne]:

Referring to our conversation of today's date, it will not be spared your notice that Master John does not favor either his father or his mother, and though I would be the last to make accusations, after wot as occurred today, my being dismissed without notice, I will ask you to draw your own conclusions from putting two and two together.

I remain, yours truly,

NANCY BEASLEY.

"I must be going in ten minutes," Hugh Prece said, "last train to Mawne leaves at 10:30."

"Hugh, darling! You look so tired," his wife murmured. Prece had turned to get dressed to the fort after his meeting with Prunella. The train had stopped at Greenhithe and, on an impulse, he had jumped out. During the walk from the station to his house he had endeavored to screw his courage to the point of telling the whole truth to Claire. He had not done so. He tried to tell himself that it was out of consideration for her, for Claire; she would be heartbroken; it would be from a selfish desire to ease the burden of his own conscience. He could invent a hundred plausible reasons for keeping his secret, but he could not deceive himself; the real reason was fun. He had no idea what line she would take. She would not understand. After all, he reflected with a certain savage insight, what is there to understand? It had happened so easily; there had seemed to be no chance of it ever coming to light. He still had a sentimental attachment for Prunella, and he had done as nine hundred and ninety-nine men out of a thousand would have done. No woman can realize how much less grace there is in a man who has sex to a man; how sheer vanity compels a man to accept what is offered.

If that damned detective unraveled the story, then, without doubt, he would be arrested for the murder of Lepean and . . . that would be the end. Nothing, after all, would be gained by confessing to Claire save the easement of his own conscience.

Claire had greeted him calmly. Her lips when they kissed were cool and sweet, but her eyes looked troubled. They had avoided discussing the subject which was uppermost in their minds till after dinner, when the delicious coffee of Claire's own brewing had been carried into the drawing room. Then she had asked him to supplement the newspaper reports by his own first hand knowledge. She listened in silence while her husband related in detail the tragic events of the previous morning.

"Would it have been suicide?" she demanded.

"Quite impossible."

"How could a person get into and subsequently out of a locked room?"

"Seems impossible at first sight," he agreed, "but I believe there is an instrument which burglars use, a sort of long tweezers, which grip the end of the key, thus allowing a door to be locked and unlocked from the outside, provided the key is in the lock; the key of Lepean's room was in the lock."

"Not the sort of tool any one would be likely to possess."

"True. I gathered, somehow, the detective wasn't very concerned about the murderer got in and out of the room. He, the murderer, must have done it, and the detective is concentrating, I think, on the question of who wanted to murder Lepean—the motive, in fact."

"Confining, of course, his inquiries to four people?"

"No, probably. The murderer must be one of us four: myself, Wapse, Harris or Private Swanwick."

Claire frowned in perplexity and distress. "You were the last person to have alive?" she asked.

Prece hesitated. "No. I didn't tell the inspector this—why, I don't know, but I was sleeping very badly last night and about 2 o'clock I got up and lit a cigarette. I heard some slight noise in the corridor. In mere curiosity I opened my door—I had not switched on the light—so that I could see the strange thing is that Wapse did not tell the detective of this extreme visit to Lepean. Under the circumstances that strikes me as—queer."

"Then he said good-night?"

"Yes."

"You hear the key of Lepean's room being turned?"

"I think so, replied her husband doubtfully.

"But those old fashioned locks always make a noise when they are turned," she persisted.

"Yes, they do. It's queer."

Claire puckered her brows thoughtfully: "Hugh, I've been puzzling over what you said about a sort of 'twosier' thing; I remember now. There's such a thing, and I know where I have seen one. Don't you remember?"

When we dined with old Mr. Wapse he showed us his collection of burglar's instruments, and amongst them I noticed a long tweezers sort of thing. Mr. Wapse took it out and showed me how it worked on the door of his study."

"Yes, I remember. Hadn't occurred to me before. The old man, you know, was one of the administrative heads of the C. I. D., so he had some opportunity of indulging his hobby."

Good Morning!
This all-talker, from a story by the late Don Byrne, might have registered as quite a picture had not the director's determination to introduce low comedy relief in to the courtroom scenes made him, his players and the episodes utterly ridiculous. For several reels—maybe not so long—the film takes on the aspects of a Mack Sennett comedy.

For awhile then, events move on reasonably enough. Then, again, the director falls into the clutches of adope imagination. Well—

The story is about a night club dancer who, in a fit of jealousy, deliberately murders the man with whom she has been living.

Eyewitnesses to the murder tell their stories in the courtroom. Flashbacks reveal to you what has happened.

The attorney for the defense, George Fawcett, tells him: How far that little cardigan sends his beans to, to the confusion of the film's trial proceedings!, questions none of the witnesses. He admits their testimony to be true. Only one thing he asks of the court and his opponent—that defense witness, Officer Thomas McCarthy, who had been sent to the South Sea Island to bring back the defendant who had escaped and gone there, be allowed to tell his story in his own way.

"We will allow," says he, "that the man on trial is not the woman who killed De Vries."

He gets his way and Milton Sills—who makes the sort of policeman any girl would cry to be arrested—details the events of the search for Anna Bergen, her capture and the return of the prisoner.

The film has many moments of sincerity. The acting is all excellent. Mr. Fawcett, and William Holden, the judge, do I think, the most worthwhile work. The photography is fine and I understand the entire company went to the South Sea Island to film "His Captive Woman." Certainly the scenario seems to bear out the press agent's assertion.

Rather an interesting little program picture, "The Eternal Woman." It's far fetched and incredible in spots, but has much relief in the way of good acting, beautiful scenery, and fine photography.

The action opens in Argentina, where two sisters and their old father keep a mountain inn. To this retreat comes a gentleman (only he isn't) who wins the love of, and wrongs the younger sister.

A blonde woman arrives who says she is his wife. The unhappy Consuelo tells her trouble to her father who goes up to kill the betrayer of his daughter—and is himself killed.

The man and the blonde who isn't his wife, but only a married lady who is cheating—she is.

Big sister starts out for revenge. The trick is—she's never seen the man, having been away visiting until just before the tragedy occurs. She's had a look at the blonde—and goes forth to slay the husband of the blonde.

Whom she finds—a widower—falls in love with, and is about to marry

Norcross Home to Be Replaced by a New Co-op

BY THALIA

There are, apparently, always some heart wrenchings incident to the passing of the old to make way for the new. I understand that the dwellers in that dignified and stately residential district adjacent to Goethe and Astor streets are heaving reminiscent sighs as they witness the demolition of the 1301 Astor street house, which is approaching its last stages, to make room for the new cooperative building in which a select circle of Chicagoans are to live.

The residence, long ago, belonged to the late Frederick Foltz, Fried Foltz's father, and then was owned by the Frank and Head family. The most recent occupants were Frederick F. Norcross, whose sister-in-law, the late and beloved "Panay" Wren, had the shade charmingly remodeled and decorated her regime as head of his household until her death in 1924.

When Mr. Norcross' daughters, Phoebe and Catherine, married Richard Bentley and Stephen Y. Hord, respectively, he sold the place to the syndicate, which is one of the few who have managed to completely sell out before its erection.

The Potter Palmers, the Howard Gillettes, Robert H. Allerton, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, the Frank Hibbards, the John H. Winterbothams, the Tiffany Bakes, and the James M. Hopkins are to have the new apartments, all of them designed to their individual wishes, and to be the last word in spaciousness and moderation.

A gaudy gathering of smart folk will attend the Dartmouth College Musical Club's concert and dance this evening in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. W. B. Swift and H. Plum are the only Chicagoans among the performers.

Mrs. Hobart P. Young of Winnetka will give a buffet luncheon tomorrow for members of the Kaskaskia chapter of the D. A. R. at the residence of her father, Frank R. Chandler of Winnetka.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters is to hold its seventh luncheon meeting of the season next Monday at the Fortnightly. Senator Florance Bohrer is to speak on "The Women's State Reformation," and Floyd Goodier, superintendent of schools for Chicago Heights, is to talk on "Some Phases of the Illinois School Situation."

One of the largest of the dinners preceding the benefit performance of "The Critic" at the Goodman theater tonight will be the one for Mrs. Alfred D. Kohn, vice president of the Illinois League of Women Voters and chairman of the public welfare department, who is leaving for a four months' trip to Russia.

More homecomers from European voyages are the Clarence K. Peeks of 6 West Fullerton, and Miss Dorothy Reilly of Highland Park. And Miss Nelly Brandon Judd is reported to be in New York City, as also is Mrs. Thorne Donnelley and the Alfred T. Cartons.

The latest issue of Town and Country carries a new photograph of Miss Beatrice Clow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clew Jr., evidently taken during this last winter that she has been spending in Paris. Also representative of Chicago is a picture of Knowlton Ames' new boat, which he purchased recently for use near Jacksonville, Fla., where he goes each winter.

Mrs. Knowlton Ames Jr. of 1320 North State street has returned from a stay in Nassau, and Mr. Ames has gone down, taking one of his boys with him for some fishing.

Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth of 1240 Lake Shore drive, Mrs. C. K. Palmer of the Ambassador, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Walker of 110 East Ontario street are among the Chicagoans sailing on the S. S. Carinthia, to leave New York for the Mediterranean this evening. The ship is to reach Cherbourg and Southampton on May 12, when many of the passengers will disembark for European travel.

The Walter S. Carrs of the Lake Shore Drive hotel and their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Carr, and Mrs. Peck of 1220 North State are to leave New York Saturday afternoon, returning from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse of 50 Scott street, their daughter, Mrs. Carl A. Stibolt, and Mrs. Morse's niece, Miss Mary Ingerson of Beloit, sailed from New York on Saturday on the Albert Ballin. They are bound for a stay at the Morse's estate in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom are back in their apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel after spending most of the winter in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Lewis returned last week from two months' travel in Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Gaston Berdonneau and her son, Robert, have arrived from Paris, France, for a two months' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Dwyer of Evanston. Mme. Berdonneau, who has not visited here in 7 years, was married with wartime bridegroom at a south side church to Lieut. Berdonneau, who was a member of the French military mission of experts sent over in 1917 for the training of American officers, and whose record won the Legion d'Honneur, the Croix de Guerre, and the coveted Medaille Militaire.

More Concerts, Also Including Works of Bach

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Yesterday's music at the Playhouse was confined to typical examples of the famous composing firm of Bach & Sons. Their expedition was in the capable hands of Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson, playing their own two decorative harpsichords and occasionally borrowing the assistance of Marguerite Davies at a third, and of a string quartet. When all were in session the little stage of the theater was quite full, but the effect fully justified the bid of "engaging."

The program of Bach's "Fugue in F major" was represented by two concertos in C Major, the first utilizing the string quartet in the fugue, and the third harpsichord and strings.

The brief and delightful quartet in F major by Vittorio Rieti was followed by the familiar beauty of the Franck quartet in D major.

IL DUCE TO TRY RESTORE LIBYA'S ANCIENT GLORY

Colonial Grants to Help Peasant Emigration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 7.—The scope of Italian colonization and subjugation in the Libya provinces of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica is to be illustrated at the third annual Tripoli fair which will be opened today by the minister of national economy, Signor Martelli. Interest in Italian colonization in Libya has also been revived by the official denial of reports of military activities in Cyrenaica.

Encouraged by authoritative Fascist rule, the Italians, following up the sword with the plough, are directing a huge effort this year to render Tripolitania suitable for cultivation and restore it to its position as an ancient Roman times, when it was "the granary of the empire." This task, it is admitted, is likely to be long, expensive, and difficult, for Libya is poor and has the worst land in Mediterranean Africa. It has the advantage, however, of being nearer home than the other Italian colonies and if rendered fertile it is expected to supply the deficiency in Italy's agricultural output, as well as affording an outlet for overpopulation.

Mussolini Believes in Libya.

Former Italian governments have not believed that Libya was worth much, but Premier Benito Mussolini, colonial minister, thinks differently. His agriculture engineers estimate that Tripolitania has 4,500,000 acres which can be made fertile. So far only 200,000 acres have been developed of this potential area which lies in the zone of Gefraf and Gebel.

During the last 18 months Italian troops, helped by airplanes, have harried the rebel tribesmen in Tripolitania, but brigandage still goes on in a certain section of Cyrenaica.

Capital and Water Needed.

The main problems facing civilian development are adequate capital, colonists, and water supplies. Along all these lines the colonial office is proceeding and large sums are being devoted to the work. A colonial institute is creating what is called here "colonial consciousness," for peasants sometimes hesitate to take up lands on which the returns are not likely to be large. An average of $100 per acre will be required to make the land fit for cultivation.

As inducements, the government grants tax and customs exemptions, reduced rail fare, a 30 per cent subsidy on rural buildings, 20 per cent on well digging, 30 per cent on imported machinery, and $50 per acre for drainage. Finally the government awards $150 annual expenses for five years to peasants agreeing to take up lands.

Only 405 Colonists Last Year.

Public works operations include road building, swamp drainage, aqueducts, arid wells, damming up mountain streams for flooding lowlands, and reforestation to act as a wind barrier against the moving sand dunes. Fairly good roads now cross Tripolitania in all directions and the government is trying to encourage tourists. Five thousand tons of salt have been reforested. Two canals each 15 miles long have been cut in Tagura and Ain Zarzana for irrigation.

Holdings were taken up last year by 405 colonists. Olives and wine grapes are the biggest crops. Ninety-six thousand olive trees and 7,000,000 grapevines were set out last year. Merchandise loadings and unloadings at Tripolitan ports increased from 11,000,000 tons in December to 18,000,000 tons in January. The orange and lemon crops this year is said to be good.

SHOT DEAD IN QUADRILLE.

George Butler, 45 years old, 2510 South Dearborn street, colonel was shot dead by Howard Boyce, 28 years old, 25 West 51st street, colored, during an argument last night.

Louise Homer Leads Elmer's Radio Jaunt

Also Enjoys the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Mme. Louise Homer, contralto, was last evening's principal soloist on the W-G-N 8:15 to 9:15 concert from New York, the other soloist being Kathleen Stewart, pianist.

Mme. Homer's program was divided into three groups, oratorio, classic, and popular. With this singer every song became a personal effort for the full, rich tones of her glorious voice. It is instructive the way Mme. Homer enters into the spirit and atmosphere of any song. For her, two songs are not even nearly alike.

Kathleen Stewart's piano solos were a surprise for their breadth of tone and vigor of execution, coming from a woman.

The Chicago Symphony concert, Prudential Stock conducting, through W-G-N 6 to 7, was enjoyable throughout. Choral groups from the Russell and Ludmilla" was totally new for us. The selection from Goldmark's "Country's Wedding" is always welcome on the air. Siegfried's "Rhine Journey" from Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods" was glorious. Every time I hear this orchestra playing a Wagnerian selection it makes me wish they would keep on to the end of the opera. The concert closed with "Symphony" by Mr. Stock himself, and this combination is something about it that calls for a repeat at a later concert. Next week's concert may prove to be the concert of "Concerts—March Heroicus" (Saint-Saens), three movements from "The Planets" by Holst, and "Les Preludes," by Liszt.

Richard Bonelli, Chicago Civic Opera, baritone, was the bright light of the New York program through K-Y-W, 6:30 to 7. There was a section of a sonata for organ and piano (composer unknown) which was excellent. The W-G-N 9:30 which was one of the best things of its kind I have heard, and this also suggested a full program of this music. The West Point male quartet program through W-B-BM, 9 to 9:30, was again a most enjoyable hour.

CAB DRIVERS WHO ACCUSE CHECKER
HEADS ARRESTED

Three Checker cab drivers, two of whom had signed complaints against officials of the company Saturday, charging that they forced them to give up their cabs, were arrested last night in front of a cab stand at Clark street and Chicago avenue on charges of disorderly conduct. They are Abraham Murnick, 24 years old, 3256 Fullerton street; J. Nathan Rubenstein, 23 years old, 4025 Kildahl avenue, and Morris Lewis, 24 years old, 4451 North Sawyer avenue.

They were arrested and held at the Chicago avenue station on the complaint of W. Hinkle, assistant superintendent of the company. Barney Meyers, night superintendent, had failed to gain full approval of the church authorities in Spain, because it is too neutral in spirit, or because it has some members which have no profession of religion.

Monks Now Productive.

This is probably a development of the times. There has from time to time been criticism of the monastic life in Spain. As far back as 1940 Louis Moutou, a Spanish writer in his "Los Monjes," a Spanish writer in his "Los Monjes," a Spanish writer in his "Monks in Spain" says the unproductive monks and nuns were the root of the problem of regeneration in Spain.

They are now becoming productive to a greater extent. Many of these institutions pay their own way; others receive government grants, but the vast capital sums which support them are obtained from private sources.
